PREFACE

It may be stated that the following work, in plan and scope, is not what, at first, I had in mind to compile. My ideal of a family genealogy has been and is—to take the name of an ancestor who seated a family in the New World, and make that name the trunk line of the work, placing the immigrant and his wife as generation one in the work. Then I would run the lines of those first American ancestors back in the Old World as far as practically possible. Next, I would find and place all their descendants in America, irrespective of the changes in names through marriage. In coming down the line, when one in it is found to have married, I would trace the lines of the family, of him or her, thus allied to the trunk line, straight back, at least to the come-over, and over the seas if data were available.

Perhaps it is not possible to attain the measure of fullness here indicated under any circumstances likely to attend one undertaking it. But, be this as it may, I dislike the idea of a partial history of the descendants of an ancestor; and especially, when, from any cause, the parts omitted are a considerable portion of the whole. Such would, of necessity, have been the case, had I, with the material in hand, in any past stage of my search, compiled a genealogy of the descendants of Joseph¹ and Alice (Pepper) Clark, or of Lawrence¹ and Lydia (Townsend) Copeland, or of both, or of any other first American ancestors of my children.

It, therefore, became necessary to suspend the work on a genealogy, such as was at first contemplated, awaiting needed data, much of which, I had begun to suspect, might not be found to become available in my time. In this view, and in order that much of the material collected might be more surely preserved than it would be likely to be, if left in promiscuous manuscripts, it occurred to me that I would arrange a partial history of the ancestors of my own, and quite a goodly number of other nearly related children, tracing, in the arrangement, as many lines back, as I could and have them, as single straight lines, complete, that is to say, with no generation missing. Hence the following compilation. In it are traced some 54 such lines, from the youngest generations now living, to some one of their immigrant ancestors, who were of the earliest settlements in America.

Upon most of these lines the treatment is much broader than single straight lines, and includes all those persons found, who come within near degrees of relationship to the single lines traced. While the labor of tracing backward these related lines was not, in the first place, undertaken, as preparatory to, nor, as before stated, with the view then to this compilation; yet, such family lines as have been traced through, from the present time back to the come-over are here utilized as warp of the web of the work. For woof, such material as has been found along the warp lines is used.

Any one, in tracing, ancestrally, no farther back than to the 11th generation preceding his own, will find, if there has been no intermingling of the lines by the marriage of parties related by consanguinity, 4094 persons from whom he is descended; 2048 of these would be his great, great, great, great, great, great, great, great grand-parents. The other 2046 would be apportioned to the intervening generations, according to the rules of geometrical progression. He would have two parents, four grand and eight great grand-parents, and so on, doubling at each generation, as the search is extended backward, or goes on up the lines.

In the work following, doubtless, errors have crept in; it would, perhaps, be singular if there had not; but it will be a source of ample gratification should the researches and the records here made of them serve, in some measure, to perpetuate the memories of such of those who early seated families in the New World, and of such of their descendants, as have been traced and herein placed. The record embraces some of the early founders, and, in later generations, workmen upon the State Structure of America,—work of the PEOPLE and not of Kings or Emperors—wherein all did well their parts; grew weary by the way, and—

“To reach that realm on the other shore
Have passed through a transient gloom;
Have walked unseen, unhelped, alone,
Through that covered bridge—the tomb.”

EXPLANATIONS

The use of a superior figure, that is, a numeral a little above and at the right of a name, indicates the American generation, the bearer of the name was, or is, in.

Where the sign + is used in the left-hand margin before a name or names, it indicates that the person or one or more of the persons next named, is or are ancestors of my children.

LINE OF CLARK

+ After long search, much of it at first naturally enough mis-directed, the trail was struck leading back to our first American ancestors, Joseph' and Alice (Pepper) Clark. These tracings find that he was born in 1597, in Suffolk County, England, where the family had long been seated. From whence the wife, Alice, came to the New World, in so far as I have been able to learn, is not known.

Augustus Peck Clarke, A. M., M. D., of Cambridge, Mass., who places himself in the line of descendants of Joseph' and Alice (Pepper) Clark and in the ninth generation, in his "Clarke's Kindred Genealogies," finds that Joseph Clark' was among the first settlers of the Dorchester Company, coming to America in the ship "Mary and John," with the Winthrop party in 1630; and that he came from Suffolk County, England.

Referring to the Dorchester, Mass. town records, under date of Nov. 22, 1634, Dr. Clarke says "Joseph Clarke (his name in the records is spelled with the final "e") and twelve other persons are mentioned as having a 'grant of six acres of land for their small and great lotts, at Naponset, betwixt the Indian field and the mill.'"

Dr. Clarke then finds that subsequently to the above grant, Joseph Clark removed to Dedham, Mass., and was one of the earliest settlers of that town, and quotes, as also does Rev. E. O. Jameson in his history of Medway, Mass., from Dedham records, Vol. 1, page 112, as follows:

"Dedham, ye 28 of ye 7 month called September, 1640, whereas, Edward Alleyen hath granted unto Joseph Clark "

(Clarke uses the final "e;" Jameson does not,) "one acre of ye land next Vine Brook, towards the North for setting his house upon we do grant unto said Joseph one acre of ye land to adjoin thereunto for to make an house lot. And we do grant unto the sayed Joseph Clark six acres of planting ground to be beyond Vine Brook to be set off by the afore-said men that we appointed to perform for Henry Wilson, provide that he subscribe to the town orders."

The Jameson history of Medway finds that Joseph Clark, the ancestor of the Clarks of that town and vicinity, came from Suffolk County, England, with his wife, Alice (Pepper) Clark, in 1640, and settled in Dedham. His eighth child, John², born in Medfield, in 1652, married in 1679, Mary Sheffield, of Sherborn, and settled in Medway, originally a part of Medfield. The history of Medfield, by William S. Tilden, finds that Joseph Clark was one of the earliest residents of Dedham, as well as one of the thirteen original settlers of Medfield.

It may be noted that Tilden does not attempt to trace Joseph Clark, back of his Dedham settlement, while Jameson says he came from England in 1640 and settled in Dedham. While it is true he did settle in Dedham in 1640, it is also true that he had previously settled in Dorchester. The error of Jameson is not an unnatural one, in view of the fact that he was compiling a town history, and it probably did not occur to him that Joseph Clark made Dedham his place of second settlement. So he started with the Dedham grant of land to Clark in 1640.

The Winthrop party of 1630, as history informs us, was comprised of "about 300 of the best Puritan families" in England. They settled early, in Dorchester, Roxbury, Watertown, Cambridge, Salem, Concord, Medfield, Medway, Billingham, Needham, Boston, Walpole, and many other places in Mass. The first reinforcement to the original Winthrop Colony was in 1635, and the Dorchester grant of land to Joseph Clark, was in 1634; therefore he must have been of the 1630 immigration. There does not seem to have been, in the Dorchester Plantation, prior to 1635, any other Joseph Clark, than our Joseph'. From the history of Dorchester in the list of settlers there previous to January, 1635 are found the names of Joseph and Bray Clark. The name of Bray Clark appears in the Dorchester records in 1634. There was a Thomas Clark who appears in the same records in 1638, in which year he was made freeman. He subsequently removed to Boston, where he became a prominent and respected citizen. Dr. Clarke finds warrant for stating that Joseph', Thomas and Bray were brothers; but this seems to rest more in theory than in proof. He founds his theory of the "three brothers," upon that of Dr. Harris, who founds upon the inscription on a gravestone erected, he says, to their memory as follows:

" Here lie three Clarks, their accounts are even, Entered on earth and carried up to heaven."

An examination of the parish records in Suffolk County, England, would probably prove or disprove the claim, that Joseph', Thomas and Bray Clark were brothers.

The first State record concerning Medfield, Mass., bears date May 22, 1650. Originally Medfield was a part of Dedham, and the first settlement in what is now Medfield was called "Dedham Village." As stated, as to Medfield, there were thirteen original pioneers, for whom, June 10, 1650, the committee laid out thirteen house lots. Joseph Clark', was one of this number, and the laying out as to him was —

"6. To Joseph Clark, ten acres abutting upon James Allen towards the North West."

Ever after the above laying out, Joseph Clark' lived in Medfield. He built a house on the west side of South St.; was made a freeman in 1652; was Selectman in 1660, and died in 1684. His widow, Alice or Else, as it was sometimes written, died in 1710.

THE NAME: WITH OR WITHOUT THE FINAL "e"

Genealogists seem to be agreed that the name, Clark, had its derivation in the place, calling or office of clerk. Anciently, but on this side of the name-making period, the name was spelled Clerke, Clerk, Clarke and Clark. No doubt, in "ye olden time," the custom was, in probably a majority of instances, to use the final "e" in writing this name, as it then was to use it at the end of a great variety of words where the modern rule rejects it. For example, an actual count of words on pages taken at haphazard, of Bradford's History of Plymouth, originally called "The Log of the Mayflower,"—(pity the name was changed)—there are found an average of twelve words to a page taken, using the final "e" where now the rule rejects it.

+ A letter addressed to the librarian of Dedham, Mass. Historical Society, inquiring how the ancestor, Joseph Clark¹ signed the covenant, brings the reply that "it appears written in full, 'Joseph Clarke.'" Joseph Clark¹ was one of the signers, in 1649, of the preamble and four articles of agreement that were the beginning of, and resulted in, the founding of Medfield, Mass. In this signing the final "e" is not used.

+ In the Suffolk County, Mass., Probate records, relating to the estates of Joseph Clark¹, Joseph², Joseph³, Joseph⁴, and Joseph⁵, being those of father, son, grandson, great grandson and great, great grandson, where an autograph signature of one of them is found, it is without the final "e." The same records, relating to the estate of Joseph Clark¹ show that the court officers used the final "e" in writing the name, and that they wrote the word year, "yeare," and also spelled Suffolk with the final "e."

Dr. Clarke, referred to above, finds warrant for and uses the final "e."

Rev. Pitt Clarke, born in 1763, and graduated from Harvard in 1790, and ordained as minister in Norton, Mass., in 1793, who died in the pastorate, Feb. 13, 1835, wrote his name with the final "e." Counting Joseph Clark¹ as generation one in America, Rev. Pitt Clarke was of the sixth, his line back being: Rev. Pitt Clarke⁶, Jacob⁵, David⁴, Solomon³, Joseph², Joseph¹. His line and ours divided at Joseph².

Rev. Pitt Clarke⁶ left an autobiography, which appears in full in Rev. George Faber Clark's history of Norton, Mass., beginning on page 186. This is a very interesting paper; but, in so far as its tracing of ancestors is concerned, it well illustrates the futility of a tradition extending farther back than two, or at most four, busy generations. Mr. Clarke must have depended largely upon his fading impressions of a tradition more or less dim when it came to him; if, indeed, his findings were not almost wholly a new revelation. He says, "I was born in Medfield, Mass., Jan. 15, 1763. My father's name was Jacob. He was one of three brothers whose grandfather came from England and settled in the north of Wrentham. My grandfather came to Medfield and purchased a farm in the south part of that town by his own industry. He had three sons and three daughters. He gave his sons the names of Nathan, Jacob and David, from a kind of veneration for those scriptural characters."

Thus, while the Rev. Pitt Clarke places himself as of the fourth generation in America, of a Clark line he does not attempt to trace, otherwise than to give the name of his father, Jacob, and that of two of his paternal uncles, Nathan and David Clark, the little he does give clearly places him in the line of the descendants of Joseph Clark¹ and of the sixth generation in the latter line, as given above. The grandfather of Rev. Pitt, was David⁴ David⁴ had, as the autobiography states, three sons, named as therein recorded. He also had two other sons, Solomon and Ichabod, and six, instead of three, daughters, all born in Medfield, Mass. The son, Ichabod, though not recorded in Medfield, is mentioned in his father's will. Why there was no mention in the autobiography, of the two sons of David¹, Solomon and Ichabod, inasmuch as both are venerable Bible names, does not appear, but may be accounted for through the vague uncertainties of tradition.

Dr. Clarke's quotation from the Dedham land grants to Joseph Clark¹ of 1640, has, and Jameson's history of Medway, giving the same records has not, the final "e." The histories of both Medfield and Medway, in their treatment of Joseph Clark¹ and his descendants, reject the final "e."

Dr. Clarke finds the following :

"In the Parish of St. James, Clerkenwell, occurs, under date of Nov. 19, 1587, the name of Thomas Clerke, son of Rumbold Clerk, christened. Aug. 12, 1608, John Clerke, son of Thomas Clark, was christened."

It is seldom, if ever, latterly, that this name is written with the third letter "e" instead of "a;" and a fair summing up of the final "e" question seems to be, that while the rule of modern orthography clips it from most words formerly carrying it, a Clark, inasmuch as his name is his own, may reject, retain or add it, and in so doing have warrant of much ancient precedent as well as modern usage. The tendency, however, for the past two hundred years, seems to have been to follow the rule and reject the final "e." Herein, in a reference to a Clark who uses the final "e," it is used, otherwise not.

+ The Mass. Archives, Vol. 68, p. 86, show that on April 24, 1676, Joseph Clark received as compensation for service in King Phillip's War, 9s. 4d., and on same date Hugh Clark, for like service received 7s. These payments were for services rendered the April before. At this time Joseph¹, was seventy-nine years of age, and rather old to do military duty. It is not unlikely that it was Joseph², as at that time he would have been thirty-four years old. Hugh Clark, mentioned above, at the date of the service, was sixty-three years of age. Hugh Clark came from England and was a resident of Watertown at the time of the birth of his eldest son, John, in 1641, see "Records of the Descendants of Hugh Clark of Watertown, Mass., by John Clark, A. B., 1866." (Treated further.)

+ Joseph¹, and Alice (Pepper) Clark were members of the Old Parish Church of Medfield, Mass. He served as a selectman in 1660; died in 1684. His widow, Alice, died in 1710. Each was aged eighty-seven years, at death.

Mary⁴, born 1687; married in 1705, Nathaniel Smith³ of Medfield, a son of Samuel² and Elizabeth (Turner) Smith, a grandson of Henry¹ and Elizabeth Smith, who came from England in 1637 and settled in Dedham. Here they were burned out in 1641, and in 1650, they removed to Medfield, where he served on the board of selectmen thirteen years. He died in 1687. Elizabeth (Turner) Smith was the daughter of John Turner¹, who removed from Roxbury, Mass., and was one of the thirteen who formed the settlement at Medfield. In the latter town he served five years as a selectman.

About one half of Medfield was burned by the Indians in February, 1675. The following, regarding the death of Elizabeth (Turner) Smith, wife of Samuel², is quoted from page 481 of Tilden's history of Medfield :

“ When the Indians made their attack upon the town, Elizabeth took her youngest child, then a year and a half old, in her arms and ran toward the fort. When a little way from the house, the savages overtook her, and killed her by a blow on the head. The child was thrown upon the ground, stunned, and left for dead, but recovered consciousness, and, when found, had crept to the dead body of its mother.”

This child was Samuel Smith³, who was afterward chosen deacon of the church ; was twenty-one years a selectman ; nine years town clerk, and sometime the treasurer of the town. He was also a representative to the General Court ; born in 1674 ; died in 1742.

2. Mehitable⁴, born in 1690 ; married Timothy Morse⁴, and settled in Walpole, Mass. He was a great grandson of Samuel Morse¹, who was born in England in 1585, and came to America, with wife, Elizabeth, and seven children in 1635. Samuel Morse lived, first at Watertown, second, at Dedham ; and when Medfield was settled he cast his lot with the latter town. The Morse line down is Samuel Morse¹, the immigrant ; Joseph² and Hannah (Phillips) Morse of Dedham, Dorchester, and Medfield ; Jeremiah³ and Elizabeth (Hamant) Morse of Medfield ; and said Timothy⁴ and Mahitable (Clark⁴) Morse of Walpole.

3. Hannah⁴, born in 1692; married in 1709, John Robins.
4. Esther⁴, born in 1695; married in 1716, Ebenezer Turner³, and settled in Walpole; he was son of John² and Sarah (Adams) Turner of Medfield, and a grandson of John Turner¹, who settled in Medfield at its founding, from Roxbury, Mass. He was a member of the Roxbury Church and served five years as a selectman of Medfield. He died in 1705.

The children of Ebenezer³, ^{in Turner}, and Esther (Clark⁴) Turner were: 1st, Ebenezer⁵. 2nd, Esther⁵, married, in 1742, Zachary Partridge² of Medfield. 3rd, John⁵, of Sturbridge. 4th, Joseph⁵. 5th, Bezaleel⁵, married in 1747, Elizabeth Baker; lived in Medfield and Walpole; had eleven children. 6th, Edward⁵, born in 1728; lived in Walpole. 7th, Abner⁵, born in 1730; married, in 1754, Abigail Smith of Walpole; lived, first in Medfield and lastly in Walpole. 8th, Elisha⁵, born in 1733; settled in Walpole. 9th, Keturah⁵, born in 1735; married in 1761, John Cleveland. 10th, Seth⁵, born in 1738; married, in 1775, Mary Clark⁴, daughter of Moses³, granddaughter of Nathaniel² and a great granddaughter of Joseph Clark¹.

- + 5. Joseph⁴, born in 1697; married in 1718, Experience Wheeler. (Treated further.)
6. Hephzibah⁴, born in 1699; married in 1727, Timothy Hamant³ ^{in his line, and 4 in the line of Clark}, son of Timothy² and Milletiah (Clark³) Hamant. Timothy Hamant³, ^{in Hamant}, was a grandson of Ephraim², and a great grandson of Joseph Clark¹. On his paternal side he was a grandson of Francis Hamant¹, who it is said settled in Medfield from Dedham; and his Medfield homestead, Tilden informs us, remained in the possession of his decendants down to 1887, when it was owned by F. D. Hamant,—the only instance of the kind regarding the homes made by the thirteen first settlers of that town.

The children of Timothy and Hephzibah (Clark⁴) Hamant were: 1st, Mehitabel⁵ in Clark, born in 1728; died in 1814; unmarried. 2nd, Elias⁵, born 1730; died same year. 3rd, Timothy⁵, born in 1731; died same year. 4th, Seth⁵, born in 1733; settled in Sturbridge. 5th, Patience⁵, born 1735; married, in 1762, Moses Smith; settled in Walpole. 6th, Timothy⁵, born in 1736; settled in Medway; died in 1813. 7th, Basmath⁵, born in 1738; married Nathaniel Walker of Sturbridge. 8th, Dinah⁵, born in 1739; married, in 1766, Ephraim Chenery⁵, of Medfield, son of Ephraim⁴, and Hannah (Smith) Chenery of Medfield; grandson of Isaac Chenery³; a great grandson of Isaac² and Elizabeth (Gamlin) Chenery of Medway; and a great, great grandson of Lambert Chenery¹ of Dedham. 9th, Francis⁵, born in 1741; married in 1771, Mary, daughter of Hon. Jeremiah Daniels of Medway, Mass.

7. Thomas⁴, born in 1703; married in Boston in 1727, Abigail, daughter of Jeremiah³ and Elizabeth (Hamant) Morse, of Medfield; granddaughter of Joseph², and Hannah (Phillips) Morse of Watertown, Dedham, Dorchester and Medfield, and a great granddaughter of Samuel Morse¹, who was born in England, in 1585, and came to America in 1635 or 6 and lived at Watertown, Dedham and Medfield.

Children of Thomas⁴ and Abigail (Hamant) Clark: 1st, Kezia⁵, born in 1729; married in 1747, Josiah Morse⁵, of Walpole. 2nd, Abigail⁵, born in 1730; married in 1748, Francis Cole, born in Boston in 1724, son of Francis and Elizabeth (Flood) Cole. 3rd, Peninnah⁵, born in 1734; married in 1758, Asa Hamant, great grandson of Francis Hamant¹. 4th,

Bathsheba⁵, born in 1736; married in 1757, Uriah Morse⁶ (Josiah⁵, Jeremiah⁴, Jeremiah³, Joseph², Samuel¹, the immigrant, born in England in 1585, as before stated.)

8. Abigail⁴, born in 1711; married, in 1730, Henry Smith⁴, ^{in Smith,} (Henry³, Samuel², Henry¹, who came to Dedham, Mass., from England in 1637, and removed to Medfield in 1651.) Henry Smith⁴ settled in Walpole.

Children: Seth⁵, Abigail⁵, Samuel⁵, Henry⁵, Hannah⁵, Moriah⁵, Amos⁵, Sarah⁵, and Azuba⁵, (all of the 5th generation in both the Smith and Clark lines.)

- + GENERATION 4. Joseph Clark⁴, (Joseph³, Joseph², Joseph¹.) was born in Medfield, Mass., in 1697, 100 years after his great grandfather, Joseph¹, was born; married, in 1718, Experience, daughter of Isaac and Experience (Metcalf) Wheeler of Dedham and Medfield; a granddaughter of Richard and Elizabeth (Turner) Wheeler of Dedham and on her maternal side a granddaughter of Michael Metcalf of Dedham, Mass., and of Norwich, England, and a great granddaughter of Rev. Leonard Metcalf of Tatterford, England. Joseph Clark⁴ died in Medfield, in 1731, aged 34 years. His widow Experience, subsequently married Daniel Wedge, of Mendon, Mass.

Children of Joseph⁴ and Experience (Wheeler) Clark:

1. Joseph⁵, born in 1719; died same year.
- + 2. Joseph⁵, born in 1720; married in 1739, Elizabeth Puffer⁴. (Treated further.)
3. Rowland⁵, born in 1722; married in 1744, Hannah, daughter of Ebenezer Lawrence of Wrentham; settled in Sturbridge.
4. Hephzibah⁵, born in 1725; married, in 1747, Gideon Albee of Mendon.
5. Jephtha⁵, born, 1727; died, 1736.
6. Experience⁵, born in 1730.

+ GENERATION 5. Joseph Clark⁵, (Joseph⁴, Joseph³, Joseph², Joseph¹,) was born in Medfield, Mass., in 1720; married, in 1739, Elizabeth⁴, daughter of Eleazer and Elizabeth (Talbot) Puffer of Dorchester, Mass.

+ Eleazer Puffer, the father of Elizabeth, wife of Joseph Clark⁵, was born in Dedham, January 30, 1684, and was a son of Matthias and Abigail (Everett) Puffer, married in Dedham, April 11, 1677,— (this was the second marriage of Matthias.) The father of Matthias was, undoubtedly, George Puffer, the immigrant, who, about the year 1639, had land, at Mount Wollaston, (later Braintree, now Quincy,) granted him for fine herds, in the name of Poffer.

Loring W. Puffer of Brockton, Mass., who places himself in the 7th generation of Puffer, in America— his line down being, George¹, James² (the elder brother of Matthias²,) Jabez³, Samuel⁴, Nathan⁵, Nathan⁶ and himself⁷, — finds warrant for saying that the fine herds for whom the Mount Wollaston land was granted, were George Puffer¹ and wife, his two sons, James² and Matthias², and a daughter.

W. S. Appleton who places himself in the Puffer line coming down through Matthias² and his first wife, Rachel (Farnsworth) Puffer, in his book, "The Family of Puffer of Mass.," puts James and Matthias in the second generation and as sons of George¹; and, as he says, they probably were. Taken in connection with the above land grant records, this is most probable. The Puffer line down from and including George, the immigrant, to its connection with the line of Clark, would, therefore, be, George¹, Matthias² and Abigail (Everett) Puffer, Eleazer³ and Elizabeth (Talbot) Puffer, and Elizabeth (Puffer) Clark⁴, wife of Joseph Clark⁵ in Clark.

From whence, or just when, George Puffer¹ came to America, has not been learned; nor has it been found who his wife was.

As stated above, Matthias Puffer² married, first, Rachel Farnsworth. This was at Braintree, March 12, 1662.

The children of this marriage were: 1st, Joseph³, born in Braintree, Jan. 17, 1663. 2nd, John³, born in Braintree, Aug. 10, 1665. 3rd, James³, born in Mendon, Mass., June 4, 1668. 4th, Esther³, who married, June 2, 1697, William Sumner of Milton, Mass. William and Esther (Puffer) Sumner were the ancestors of Hon. Charles Sumner of Mass.

On July 10, 1675, Rachel (Farnsworth) Puffer and her son, Joseph were killed, at Mendon, by the Indians; and, on April 11, 1677, Matthias², married, second, Abigail, daughter of Richard Everett of Dedham. The children of this second marriage were: 5th, Benjamin³, born in 1678; died young. 6th, Jonathan³, born at Dedham, Sept. 28, 1679; married, at Roxbury, July 18, 1717, Abiel Beacon. 7th, Samuel³, born at Dedham, Feb. 22, 1681. 8th, Eleazer³, born at Dedham, Jan. 30, 1684; married, at Dorchester, Nov. 27, 1713, Elizabeth Talbot, and lived in that part of Dorchester, in 1726, incorporated as Stoughton. These, Eleazer and Elizabeth (Talbot) Puffer, were the parents of Elizabeth (Puffer) Clark, wife of Joseph Clark⁵. Richard Everett, the father of Abigail (Everett) Puffer, wife of Matthias², in Puffer, was the American ancestor of Hon. Edward Everett of Mass. 9th, Abigail³, born at Dedham, May 18, 1685; married, March 25, 1708, William Crane of Dorchester, who died at Stoughton, July 20, 1742.

Elizabeth Talbot, who became the wife of Eleazer Puffer³, was daughter of Peter and Mary (Wadel — widow of John Wadel) Talbot, married, in Dorchester, Jan. 12, 1677, by Gov. Dudley. Peter and Mary (Wadel) Talbot were grandparents of Elizabeth (Puffer) Clark, wife of Joseph Clark⁵.

Children of Joseph⁵ and Elizabeth (Puffer) Clark :

1. Joseph⁶, born in Medfield, Mass., in 1739.
2. Thomas⁶, born in Medfield, Mass., 1742.
- + 3. Ichabod⁶, born Feb. 1, 1745. (Treated further.)
4. Abigail⁶, born in Mendon, Mass., Aug. 1748.
5. Josiah⁶, born in Mendon, Mass., May 15, 1751.

6. James⁶, born in Mendon, Mass., Aug. 27, 1753.

7. Elizabeth⁶, born in Mendon, Mass., May 28, 1754.

Joseph Clark⁵, sold his property in Medfield in 1742, and removed to Mendon. He died at the latter town about 1780.

GENERATION 6. Ichabod Clark⁶, (Joseph⁵, Joseph⁴, Joseph³, Joseph², Joseph¹,) was born in Mendon, Mass., Feb. 1, 1745; married, March 28, 1771. Phebe⁶, daughter of Amos⁵, and Mercy (Comstock) Sprague of Smithfield, R. I.; a granddaughter of Benjamin Sprague, Jr⁴, great granddaughter of Benjamin³, and Alice (Bucklin) Sprague; great, great granddaughter of William Sprague², who was born in 1650, and a resident of Hingham, Mass., and Providence, R. I.; and a great, great, great granddaughter of William Sprague¹, the American Ancestor, who was a son of Edward Sprague, a fuller, of Upway, Dorset County, England. The American Sprague line down, to its connection with that of Clark, is—William¹, William², Benjamin³, Benjamin⁴, Amos⁵, and Phebe (Sprague) Clark⁶.

Ichabod Clark⁶, in Clark, lived, first in Mendon, Mass., second, in Cumberland, R. I., third, Belchertown, Mass., having, on Oct. 20, 1806, purchased, of one Elexer Clark, a farm, in the latter town. This farm passed, by will, from Ichabod⁶, to his son, Josiah⁷, and came to a grandson, Nathan Josiah⁸, who, in 1886, sold it and removed to Nebraska.

Concerning Ichabod Clark⁶, the following is quoted from "Clarke's Kindred Genealogies" by A. P. Clarke, A. M., M. D., from pages 22 and 23:

"Captain Ichabod Clark" (Dr. Clarke uses the final "e") "served in the War of the Revolution. He appears with the rank of Sergeant on Muster and Pay Roll of Captain Benjamin Farrar's Company; Colonel Benjamin Hawes's Regiment for service at Rhode Island on the alarm given; time of enlistment September 27, 1777, time of discharge October 29, 1777. . . . It was a march to Rhode Island on a secret expedition. (See Rhode Island service, Vol. 2, p. 40, Mass. Archives.) He also served as a Lieutenant and Captain in the Continental line. He commanded a company of irregular Mounted Rangers, which he had raised for protecting farms and for guarding the borders of the State. He served in the army of General Sullivan, protecting military stores and property; he was on duty at the battle of Rhode Island, August 29, 1778. . . . (See Year Book of the American Revolution, 1893-4.) It seems that Captain Ichabod Clark, during the Revolutionary war, had service, not only in the army, but also in the navy, for his name appears again on the petition dated at Boston, July 31, 1782, given by Daniel Sargent and others, asking, that Ichabod Clark be commissioned as commander of the brigantine 'Elizabeth.' The petition was approved in Council. . . . (See Mass. Archives, Vol. 172, p. 182. The brig 'Elizabeth' here mentioned as fitted out in 1782, was furnished with 15 men and 6 guns, and was commanded by Ichabod Clark. (See notes on early ship-building in Mass. communicated by Captain George Henry Preble, U. S. N. with 'A complete list of the Public and Private Armed vessels, belonging to Mass., prior to the Revolution from 1636 to 1776, and of Armed vessels built or fitted out in Mass., from 1776 to 1783, inclusive.')

HOMESTEAD OF ICHABOD CLARK^o, BELCHERTOWN, MASS.

See N. E. His. Gen. Register, 1871, p. 363.) "It will here be remembered that Naval engagements continued to take place on the ocean during the Revolutionary War until near the close of the year 1782; and that Gen. Washington did not issue the proclamation of peace until the 19th of April, 1783, precisely eight years after the battle of Lexington."

Children of Ichabod⁶ and Phebe (Sprague) Clark:

1. Anna⁷, born in Mendon, Mass., in 1772; married, in 1791, Nathaniel Aldrich of, and settled in, Wrentham; removed to Providence, R. I., in 1828.

Children (all born in Wrentham:) 1st, Nathan Clark Aldrich^s, born March 2, 1792; died in Providence, Nov. 18, 1833. 2nd, Arca^s, born in 1798; died in Baltimore, Md., in 1832. 3rd, Lavinia^s, born in 1809; married, in 1833, Westcott Handy of Providence, and had five children. 4th, Mary^s, born in 1811; married in 1839, Amos Baker, and had six children; all died in infancy.

2. Seth⁷, born in Mendon in 1775; married, in 1801, either Sylvia, daughter of Steven Staples of Cumberland, R. I., or Sylvia Pickering; (have been unable to determine which.) Dr. A. P. Clarke says Staples; Mrs. Lavinia (Aldrich) Handy^s, of Providence, R. I., a neice of Seth Clark⁷, a granddaughter of Ichabod⁶, and who, in her day, was a sort of keeper of the Clark docket, says Pickering. Seth⁷, had four children: Phela^s, Lucina^s, Stephen^s, and Barten^s. They all married and are all dead.
- + 3. Nathan⁷, born, in Mendon, May 10, 1778; removed to Maine, and, in 1805, married Nancy Hart. (Treated further.)
4. Lucy⁷, born in Cumberland, R. I., in 1784; married Elijah Darling⁴, born July 10, 1778, son of Peter Darling³, of Cumberland, R. I., grandson of Benjamin Darling² of Mendon, and a great grandson of Denice Darling, of Braintree, whose wife was Hannah Francis.
The children of Elijah⁴ and Lucy (Clark⁷) Darling were: 1st, Reena^s, married Alden Ballou. 2nd, Amelia^s, married Jerald Wilcox. 3rd, Roxellana^s, married John O. Paine of Woonsocket, R. I. 4th, Lucy^s, married Amos Arnold, and removed West 5th, Phebe^s, and 6th, Amy^s, twins; they married twins by the name of Jilson.
5. Lucina⁷, married Welcome Weatherhead.
6. Josiah⁷, born March 31, 1786; married Phila Jenks; had 3 children, Jenks^s, Jerusha^s, and Nathan Josiah^s.

Josiah⁷, took by will the homestead in Belchertown.

At his decease the farm came to Nathan Josiah⁸ who sold it and went, in 1886, as before stated, to Nebraska.

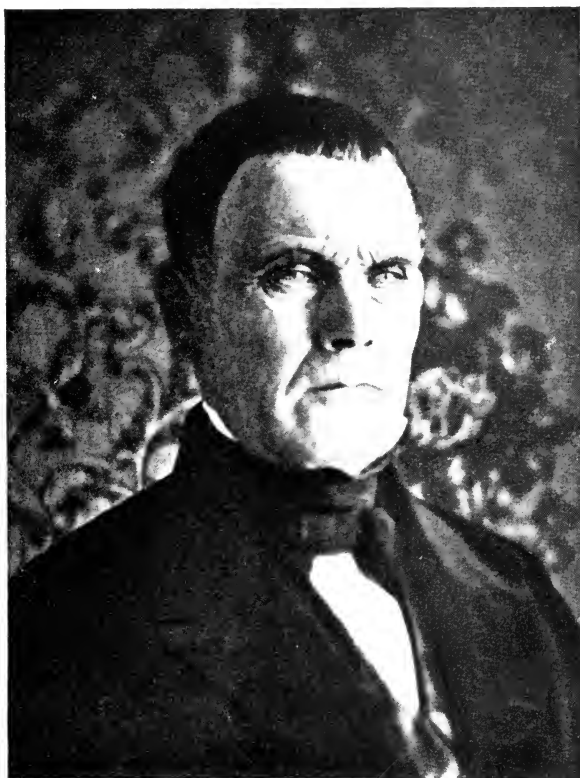

+ It is believed that the foregoing, as to the order of the births of the children of Ichabod⁶ and Phebe (Sprague) Clark, is correct. This order is based upon the records kept, preserved and furnished by both Mrs. Lavinia (Aldrich⁸) Handy, daughter of Nathaniel and Anna (Clark⁷) Aldrich, and a granddaughter of Ichabod⁶, and Phebe (Sprague) Clark, and who died in Providence, R. I., June 5, 1900, and by Mrs. Almira Sprague (Clark⁸) Plummer of Upper Stillwater, Maine, and Williams, Arizona, and who died at the latter place, January 1, 1898, aged 82 years. Mrs. Plummer was a daughter of Nathan⁷, and Nancy (Hart) Clark, and a granddaughter of Ichabod⁶ and Phebe (Sprague) Clark. And, besides, this order is corroborated, by the public records, in so far as I have found them. The will of Ichabod Clark⁶, (see Hampshire County, Mass., records, box 31, case 40,) dated March 28, 1814, probated in 1827, mentions his family in the following order,—1st, wife Phebe; 2nd, sons, Seth, Nathan and Josiah; 3rd, daughters, Anna Aldrich, Lucy Darling and Lucinia Weatherhead. It will be noticed that the children mentioned in the records and in the will are the same in name and number. It is therefore, evident that Ichabod mentions his sons' names first in his will, without

+ regard to the order of births.
 Captain Ichabod Clark⁶, died in Belchertown, Mass., Feb. 22, 1827, aged 82 years. His wife, Phebe, died in 1816.

+ GENERATION 7. Nathan Clark⁷, (Ichabod⁶, Joseph⁵, Joseph⁴, Joseph³, Joseph², Joseph¹,) was born in Mendon, Mass., May 10, 1778; married, in 1805, Nancy, (born in Walpole, Mass., Nov. 8, 1786,) daughter of Captain Jacob and Jerusha (King) Hart; granddaughter of Samuel King of Wrentham, Mass.

NATHAN CLARK.

+ Captain Jacob Hart, with his family, removed from Walpole, Mass., to Holden, now, (then Orrington,) Maine, about the year 1800. He was a soldier in the Revolution, and subsequently a pensioner. In January, 1782, the General Court of Mass. gave him three notes for services, as Sergeant, in the army, each for 23 pounds, 6 shillings and 5 pence; the first payable in 1784; the second in 1785, and the third, in 1786. By forgery, some one obtained payment of the notes; but the Court by a Resolve bearing date June 14, 1792, authorized payment to Hart, then residing at Walpole.

Captain Hart settled in that part of Orrington which is now Holden, and in honor of him the place was called "The Hart Neighborhood." He made a farm, erected a house and out-buildings, on the road leading from the Congregational Church at "The Center," up over the southerly slope of Potash Hill, past the residences of General John Blake, John Farrington and Silas Winchester—all soldiers of the Revolution—to what was originally Gilmore's, and later George's Corner, in Holden, near the Eddington and Dedham lines. Blake and Farrington were from Wrentham, and Winchester from Brookline, Mass. Winchester's wife was Sally, daughter of Samuel King of Wrentham, and a sister of Jerusha (King) Hart, wife of Captain Jacob Hart.

Besides Blake, Hart, Winchester and Farrington, above named, there were five other Revolutionary Soldiers settled in what is now the town of Holden, viz: Isaac Clewley, Ebenezer Fisher, Samuel Gilmore, Major Thomas George, and David Mann.

+ The children of Captain Jacob and Jerusha (King) Hart were all born in Walpole, Mass., excepting the youngest, William Jarvis, who was born at the new home in Maine, March 27, 1803. They were:

- + 1. Nancy, married Nathan Clark⁷. (Treated further.)
 2. Achsah, married Deacon Lemuel Copeland, who settled in Holden from Norton, Mass., and in that part of Holden called "The Wiswell Neighborhood." A brother of Deacon Lemuel, Joseph, also settled in the same neighborhood. They were descended from Lawrence Copeland¹, who seated the family in America. This line down being—Lawrence Copeland¹, William², Benjamin³, Asa⁴, Lemuel⁵ and Joseph⁵.

3. Jacob Hart, Jr., married Nancy Farrington, daughter of the Revolutionary soldier, John Farrington; settled in Holden.

7. William Jarvis, married Eliza Bretton, daughter of the above Joseph, and Betsey (Bretton) Copeland, and settled in Holden.

+ Nathan Clark⁷ learned the carpenter's trade in Attleboro, Mass.; and, soon after reaching his majority, joined the pioneer settlement at Orrington on the Penobscot River. For a few years he plied his trade in Orrington and Bangor. He was one of the workmen upon the original Hatch tavern, a wooden structure on Main St., in Bangor, built upon the lot where the Bangor Exchange hotel, a brick structure, now stands. When he was ready to purchase land for a home-stead farm there were two lots, both of the same acreage and both in the market at the same price; one was on the north-easterly bank of the Kenduskeag stream in Bangor, where Exchange St. is, the other where he did locate and ever after lived, in what is now Holden, eight miles easterly, and on the other side of Penobscot river from Bangor. He became quite an extensive builder, farmer and lumberman, cutting the timber from his own lands and sawing the same in his own mills.

Horace was a great grandson of Deacon Thomas and Mary (Blake) Mann of Wrentham, Mass. David Mann was one of the original grantees of Orrington, was a Revolutionary soldier and a pensioner. Horace Silsby was graduated from Dartmouth College, class of 1846; for a number of years was Preceptor of Blue Hill Academy; for several years was in the Pension Department at Washington, D. C. Generation 8. Eliza Ann Clark⁸, (Nathan⁷, Ichabod⁶, Joseph⁵, Joseph⁴, Joseph³, Joseph², Joseph¹), was born in Orrington, Maine, later Brewer, now Holden, May 18, 1806; married in 1830, William Start Pritchard⁶, in Pritchard; resided in Milford, Oldtown and Bangor, Maine. This family of Pritchard is of Welch extraction. The American line begins with William Pritchard¹, who spelled his name without a "t." He was of Lynn, Mass., in 1645; of Ipswich in 1648; of Quobange, now Brookfield, Mass., in 1667; was an original proprietor in the settlement of the town, having 200 acres of land granted him there, by the General Court; was sergeant of a militia company. He was also Clerk of the writs. Aug. 2, 1675, he was in King Phillip's war. He was killed by the Indians, on the expedition sent out by Gov. John Leverett, Captains Hutcherson and Wheeler in command. In this expedition the eldest son of William¹, Samuel², was also slain, and Quobange burned.

John Pritchard², (William¹), was born in Ipswich, Mass. in 1650; married Sarah Averill, of the latter town; died in Topsfield, Mass.

John Pritchard³, (John², William¹), was born in Ipswich, Mass., March 28, 1680; had seven children; died in 1753.

Paul Pritchard⁴, (John³, John², William¹), was born in Falmouth, now Portland, Maine, Sept. 5, 1721; married Hannah Perley; resided, first, in Boxford, Mass., second, in New Ipswich, N. H.; was an active member of the Committee of Safety and Correspondence during the American Revolution, and rode to Concord to confer with the Mass. Committee, at the time of the midnight ride of Paul Revere, and was at the "Concord Fight;" had two sons in the Revolutionary Army, who were at Bunker Hill, Hubbardston and the surrender of Burgoyne; had 10 children.

Stephen Pritchard⁵, (Paul⁴, John³, John², William¹,) was born in New Ipswich, N. H., 1772; died there in 1802, aged 30 years; had two children, William Start⁶, and Mary⁶.

William Start Pritchard⁶, (Stephen⁵, Paul⁴, John³, John², William¹,) was born in New Ipswich, N. H., Oct. 5, 1799; married, as above stated, in 1830, Eliza Ann Clark⁸, in the line of Clark. Eliza Ann (Clark) Pritchard, died in Bangor, Maine, in Jan. 1846. William Start Pritchard died in Brewer, Village, Maine, Dec. 20, 1862.

Children of William Start⁶ and Eliza Ann (Clark⁸) Pritchard:

2. Mary Angelina Pritchard⁷, (9, in Clark,) born in Milford, Maine, May 23, 1833; resides in Newport, R. I.; unmarried.
3. Artemas How Pritchard⁷, (9, in Clark,) born in 1835; died in 1836.
4. Eliza Ann Pritchard⁷, (9, in Clark,) born in Oldtown, Maine, Jan. 14, 1837; married, Aug. 26, 1863, Rev. Edwin A. Harlow; died in Cape Elizabeth, Maine Aug. 25, 1874.

GENERATION 8. Harvey Dexter Clark⁸, (Nathan⁷, Ichabod⁶, Joseph⁵, Joseph⁴, Joseph³, Joseph², Joseph¹,) was born in Orrington, later Brewer, now Holden, Aug. 7, 1807; married, Dec. 25, 1833, Eliza Ann Copeland⁶, born Sept. 14, 1810, daughter of William⁵ and Silence (Lane) Copeland of Holden, then Brewer.

LINE OF COPELAND

In the Copeland line, Eliza Ann (Copeland) Clark, wife of Harvey Dexter Clark⁸, was of the 6th generation in America, counting the immigrants, Lawrence and Lydia (Townsend,) Copeland, as the 1st. Lawrence Copeland¹ is the ancestor of nearly all the Copelands in the United States. In fact, in my researches, which have been quite extensive, I have found but one of the name who is not in the line of the descendants of Lawrence¹, and that is Dr. W. L. Copeland of 866 West Monroe St., Chicago, Ill., who writes, under date of Jan'y 19, 1899, that his father and grandfather came to this country from the north of Ireland about 75 years ago and settled in Lewiston, N. Y.

+ Lawrence Copeland¹ came to America at some time previous to Oct. 12, 1651. So far as I have been able to learn, research has not brought to light when he came, from whence, what ship he came in or where he landed. The first record of him found is that of his marriage, by Mr. Hibbins of Boston, "the twelfth day of the tenth month, 1651," to Lydia Townsend. It is quite probable that Lydia (Townsend) Copeland was a daughter of Thomas Townsend¹, who came from London, England, about 1637 and settled in Lynn, Mass., and that Lawrence Copeland¹ was of Lynn at the time of his marriage. Charles Henry Townsend of New Haven, Ct., in his "Townsend Family of Lynn, in Old and New England," revised 4th Ed. 1884, on page 6, has the following: "This Thomas Townsend had sons, Thomas², Samuel², John² and Andrew². He also may have had, (by first wife,) Robert of Porstmouth, 1655, when he signed as one of the supporters of the jurisdiction of Mass.; and daughter Lydia, who married Lawrence Copeland of Lynn, 'ye 12, 10, 1651; also Elizabeth, married to Samuel Mariam Dec. 22, 1669, and, also, perhaps, Mary, a member of Samuel Gardner's family in 1661." Page 54, of this work states that in 1650, Lydia Townsend was a member of Mr. Ruck's family, and that Mr. Ruck was next door neighbor to Mr. Thomas Townsend in Lynn. This was the year before her marriage to Lawrence Copeland'.

While there is much to support a conclusion that Lydia (Townsend) Copeland, was a daughter of Thomas Townsend, there is yet, in so far as my researches have gone, a missing link in the chain of evidence proving it. Lydia, undoubtedly, was born in London, England. The early records of Lynn, Mass., have been lost or destroyed. It is doubtful if those records would furnish the missing link if now extant. They might, and probably would, give the marriage of Lawrence and Lydia (Townsend) Copeland. But, upon this point, the Lynn records are not needed; for, at some time after his marriage in 1651, and 1654, Lawrence Copeland', settled in Braintree, Mass., and there, under date of June 10, 1654, the marriage was entered as follows:

"Lawrence Copeland & Lydia Townsend were married the twelve day of the tenth month 1651, married by Mr. Hibbins of Boston."

As matter of interest and especially by way of preserving the clew as to Lydia (Townsend) Copeland's line of ancestry, the following is quoted from Townsend: "Thomas Townsend of Lynn, was baptized Jan. 8, 1594. He was 3rd son of Henry, Gentleman, and Margret, Gentlewoman, (Forthe) Townsend, who were married at St. John Zacharias, London, by Rev. Ambrose Golden, minister, Nov. 5, 1590, and said Margret was buried at Brocon-Ash, June 23, 1596, and was a daughter of Robert Forthe."

Should the parish records in London show that Thomas Townsend had a daughter, Lydia, born or baptised there, the evidence would be supplied. In any event the clue is one well worth preserving, as a field note, for use in a verification of a seemingly quite probable theory. It may be added here that, should future research prove that Lydia was daughter of Thomas Townsend of Lynn, such proof will clear the way for some interesting research in tracing the line of Lydia (Townsend) Copeland back in England.

As before stated, Lawrence Copeland¹ settled in Braintree, land originally belonging to Boston, called Mount Wollaston. The Entry upon the Braintree records of the births of the first two children of Lawrence¹ and Lydia (Townsend) Copeland was made at the same time and in 1654, and at about the same time and by the same clerk who entered the marriage of the latter. This indicates that the record of the marriage, and the birth of the first child was, for a time, neglected, or that the record was made in Braintree as soon as the family had effected a settlement there.

To their first child, a son, Lawrence and Lydia (Townsend) Copeland gave the name of Thomas. This son lived but a month. Their next child, also a son, they called Thomas. Perhaps these facts somewhat strengthen the probability that Lydia was a daughter of Thomas Townsend, and that she gave her first two sons, (the first one dying in infancy,) the name of her father. In any event, this seems of sufficient weight to merit mention, as it may serve as a blaze on the line of the trail in some future attempt to make certain.

In preserving all that may serve as spots along the line of future researches, concerning the Copeland line, the following may be mentioned: There is, A. D. 1900, and, for 20 years or more, has been, a Copeland Association in Knox County, Maine, holding annual reunions. This Association was instituted and has been kept up by the descendants of two brothers, Moses and Joseph Copeland, of the 4th generation in America, counting Lawrence as the 1st. This line down to and including said Moses and Joseph is: gen. 1, Lawrence and Lydia (Townsend) Copeland; gen. 2, William and Mary (Bass) (Webb) Copeland, she was the widow of Christopher Webb, Jr., a daughter of John² and Ruth (Alden²) Bass, and a granddaughter of John¹ and Priscilla (Mollins²) Alden, Mayflower pilgrims; gen. 3, David and Elizabeth (Newcomb or Bent—I have not been able to make certain which) Copeland; gen. 4, Moses and Joseph. Moses and Joseph Copeland were sons of David³, and, about the year 1763, settled in Warren, Maine, and have a numerous posterity. Through the courtesy of Mrs. O. A. McIntyre of Warren, and Mr. Leroy Copeland and his daughter, Mrs. G. A. Fletcher of Albion, Maine, (all in this Copeland line,) I have been furnished some abstracts from the records of their association, among them the following:—

“Genealogy of the Copelands. The Copeland family trace their ancestry to Sir John Copeland, who fought at the battle of Neville’s Cross, under Edward III, Oct. 17, 1347, and with his own hand captured King David of Scotland, whom he bore from the field with a company of attendants, and, proceeding to Calais, delivered him into the hands of his royal master then in France. For this service he was created a baronet by the King and given a pension of five hundred pounds per annum. He was also made warden of Berwick, sheriff of Northumberland and keeper of Buxboro’ Castle.

“Lawrence Copeland, a lineal descendant of Sir John, came to America, settled at Mount Wollaston, now Braintree, Mass., where he died Dec. 30, 1699, aged 110 years.”

Further inquiry of the parties named above, as to the tracing in America from Lawrence¹, to Sir John in Northumberland, England, brings from Mrs. Fletcher the reply that their records were made up from an article published in the Granite (N. H.) Monthly of Oct., 1878, from data furnished by William Judson Copeland, Esq, a descendant of Lawrence¹, born in 1841, a lawyer, who settled, first, in Houlton, Maine; and lastly in Berwick, Maine, and who died suddenly at middle age, being, at the period of his death, at work on a genealogy of the Copelands. Letters sent to the supposed surviving members of his family, inquiring concerning this work and the authenticity of the tracing back to Sir John in England of the line of Lawrence Copeland¹ referred to in the Knox County Copeland Association records, have not been heard from. But this much we have,—Lawrence Copeland was at the beginning of the American end of this line. And history gives John Copeland, a squire of Northumberland County, England, and the fact that he captured King David of Scotland, at the battle of Neville's Cross, in the year 1347. Copeland, it is learned, has not been a very common name throughout England, but has been rather a local one in Northumberland County. Therefore, that the line of Lawrence Copeland¹, in America, if traced back in England, should reach the hero of Neville's Cross, is within the realm of possibility if not of probability. However, as the tracings by the late William Judson Copeland, if he made them, covering the three centuries intervening between Sir John Copeland and Lawrence, have not been procured for use here, and, inasmuch, as the merest hint is often all obtainable at first, in tracing a family line, the hints of the records and of the historical fact, above referred to, are here further preserved, for the possible benefit of some future searcher along the line of Copeland.

The Braintree records say that, "Lawrence Copeland, a very aged man, born in the Reigne of our Gracious Sovereigne Queen Elizabeth of Blessed Memory, dyed December ye 30th, 1699."

Tradition has it that Lawrence Copeland was 110 years old at the time of his death. The Quincy inscription says he died at the age of 100 years. The inscription is probably correct.

Lydia, wife of Lawrence Copeland¹, died in Braintree, January 8, 1688.

Children of Lawrence¹ and Lydia (Townsend) Copeland:

1. Thomas², born Oct. 3, 1652; died Nov. 4, 1652.
2. Thomas², born Dec. 8, 1654; married, first, Mehitable Atwood, widow, Feb. 3, 1692. They had one child, Mary³, born Nov. 24, 1692, who became the wife of Ephraim Thayer⁴, son of Ephraim³ and Sarah (Bass) Thayer, a grandson of Shadrach², and a great grandson of Thomas Thayer¹, all of Braintree. Thomas Thayer¹, was one of the early settlers of Braintree. Mehitable (Atwood) Copeland died Nov. 2, 1695. Thomas Copeland², married, second, Mercy _____, who died Feb. 20, 1699; he married, third, Mary, daughter of John Arnold², son of Joseph¹, who was among the first settlers of Braintree, whose wife was Rebecca Curtis. The children of Thomas² and Mary (Arnold) Copeland were, 2nd, Thomas³, who was the father of nine children. His other children were: 3rd, Sarah³, who married Jonathan Hayden of Braintree. 4th, Nathaniel³, died at two years of age. 5th, Elizabeth³, who married in May, 1725, Benjamin Paine of Braintree, and had four children, namely, Nathaniel⁴, Mary⁴, Phebe⁴, and Phinehas⁴, in Copeland.
3. William², born Sept. 15, 1656; married, April 13, 1694, Mary (Bass) Webb, widow of Christopher Webb, Jr., of Braintree. (Treated further.)
4. John², born Dec. 10, 1658; married Ruth _____, and settled in Braintree. (A letter under date of Nov. 2, 1900, from Miss Alice F. Copeland of Dexter, Maine, a descendant of Lawrence¹, through John², says that in Thayer's work, in the genealogical library in Boston, some one has written, in the blank, after "Ruth,"—"Newcomb.") The Copelands of Dexter, Maine, and vicinity, and of Calais, Maine, and of

Waterville, Maine, and vicinity are descended from Lawrence¹ through John².

The children of John Copeland² were: 1st, John³. 2nd, Samuel³. 3rd, William³. 4th, Ruth³. 5th, Lydia³. 6th, Berthier³. 7th, Seth³. 8th, Mercy³.

5. Lydia², born March 31, 1661.

6. Ephraim², born Nov. 17, 1765; died in 1690. The following is from the published records of Braintree, page 658: "Upon the 9th day of August there went out a fleet of souldiers to Canadee in the year 1690, and the small pox was aboard and there died, six of it; four thrown overboard at Cap an, Corporall Permtr, Isaak Thyr, Ephraim Copeland and Ebenezer Owin. Thes and Samuel Bas and John Cheney was thrown overboard at Nantasket." Whether Christopher Webb, Jr., was one of the four thrown overboard at "Cap an" I have not been able to learn; but he died of small pox in 1690, and his widow, Mary (Bass) Webb, four years later, married William Copeland².

7. Hannah², born Dec. 25, 1668.

8. Richard², born May 11, 1672.

9. Abigail², born 1674; married Eleazer Isgate of Braintree, Nov. 23, 1715.

+ GENERATION 2. Willam Copeland², (Lawrence¹), born Sept. 15, 1656, in Braintree. He was the third son and child of Lawrence¹ and Lydia (Townsend) Copeland; married, April 13, 1694, Mary, widow of Christopher Webb, Jr., of Braintree, a daughter of John² and Ruth (Alden) Bass. On her paternal side, she was a granddaughter of Deacon Samuel Bass¹, who, with his wife Anne and one or two young children, were among the first settlers of the Mass. Bay Colony, coming to it about 1630. He settled first in Roxbury near Hoy Bridge. He and his wife were enrolled among the earliest members of the first church in that town, which was gathered as early as 1632. He was admitted freeman May 14, 1634, and lived in Roxbury until about 1640, when he moved to Braintree, and was chosen and ordained the first deacon of the church there. In 1641, and subsequent years, he represented the town in the General Court, in all, twelve years. In the records of the doings and affairs of the town of Braintree, he is frequently mentioned.

The following is the record of his death, taken, verbatim, from page 660, of printed records of Braintree:

“Decon Samuel Bass, aged 94 departed this life, upon the 30th day of December 1694, who had bin a Decon of the Church of Braintree for the space of above 50 years and the first Decon of that Church, and was the father and grandfather and great grandfather of a hundred and sixty and two children before he died, the youngest whereof was Benjamin Bas, the son of Joseph Bas and Mary his wife born seven days before his Death.”

The “Benjamin Bas” of the record was Benjamin, son of Joseph, born eleven days before the death of Deacon Samuel Bass, and not seven days, as the record states; as the birth of Benjamin was Dec'r 19, 1694.

+ Children of Deacon Samuel Bass¹:

1. Samuel², married Mary Howard; died young, leaving one son, Samuel³, who had a family of eleven children.
2. Hannah², married Sept. 15, 1651, Stephen Paine of Braintree; had seven children.
3. Mary², married in 1647, Captain John Capen of Dorchester. She was the Captain's second wife and had seven children.
- + 4. John², married Ruth Alden. (Treated further.)
5. Thomas², married Sarah Wood of Medfield, Mass; had five children.
6. Joseph². (I find no further record of Joseph².)
7. Sarah², married, Deacon John Stone of Watertown, Mass.

+ Generation 2. John Bass², (Deacon Samuel¹), born in Roxbury, Mass., in 1632; married, Dec. 3, 1657, Ruth, daughter of John and Priscilla (Mollins) Alden; marriage ceremony performed by John Alden of Duxbury, father of Ruth.

+ Children of John² and Ruth (Alden) Bass:

1. John Bass³, born Sept. 26, 1658; married, Hannah, daughter of Joseph² and Abigail (Baxter) Adams, and a granddaughter of Henry Adams¹, who seated this family in America, and settled in Mount Wollaston, (Braintree.)

Joseph Adams², the father of Hannah (Adams) Bass, wife of John Bass³, was the grandfather of President John Adams⁴,—the Adams line down being, Henry Adams¹, Joseph² and Abigail (Baxter) Adams; John³ and Susannah (Boylston) Adams, and President John⁴ and Abigail (Smith) Adams.

2. Samuel Bass³, born Jan'y 25, 1660; married, Mary³, daughter of Joseph² and Abigail (Baxter) Adams, and widow of Samuel Webb.
3. Ruth Bass³, born Nov. 28, 1662.
4. Joseph Bass³, born Oct. 5, 1665; married, June 5, 1688, Mary Belcher.
5. Hannah Bass³, born April 22, 1667; married, Joseph³, son of Joseph² and Abigail (Baxter) Adams.
- + 6. Mary Bass³, born Dec. 11, 1669; married, first, March 24, 1686, Christopher Webb, Jr. He died in 1690. She married, second, April 13, 1694, William Copeland², son of Lawrence¹ and Lydia (Townsend) Copeland, as before stated.
7. Sarah Bass³, born Jan'y 29, 1672; married, Jan'y 7, 1692, Ephraim Thayer³, of and born in Braintree Nov. 19, 1669, son of Shadrach² and Deliverance Thayer. Ephraim³ and Sarah (Bass³) Thayer were the parents of 14 children all of whom lived, married and had large families.

+ Through the marriages of the children of John² and Ruth (Alden) Bass, the descendants of John³ and Abigail (Adams) Bass, and the descendants of Samuel³ and Mary (Adams) (Webb) Bass, and the descendants of Joseph³ and Mary (Belcher) Bass, and the descendants of William² and Mary (Bass) (Webb) Copeland, and the descendants of Ephraim³ and Sarah (Bass) Thayer, are relatives, by consanguinity, and are all descendants of both Deacon Samuel Bass¹, and Hon. John¹ and Priscilla (Mollins) Alden, the last two named being of the 1620 Mayflower party.

+ As to the place or places of residence of William Mollins, father of Priscilla, prior to the sojourn of the Pilgrims in Leyden, Holland, but little seems to have been verified. Without doubt he was of the Leyden Congregation, at one time. According to Baird's History of Huguenot Emigration to America, Vol. 1, page 158, William Mollins was a Walloon, or French Huguenot. Baird says, "Wm. Mollins, and his daughter Priscilla, afterwards wife of John Alden, and Phillip De la Noye and others, remained in Leyden, when the French Huguenots went to Guiana."

Mrs. Chas. L. Alden in her Alden Genealogy says, "I am inclined to think, that either William Mollins, or his wife Alice, were English, for after this they went to England and joined the Pilgrims there." The reason assigned by Mrs. Alden, namely, "for after this they went to England and joined the Pilgrims there," does not, as it strikes me, seem to overcome the statement of Baird, quoted above, and what further seems to me to be the probabilities; although, nevertheless, either, both or neither, may have been English. The fact that William Mollins left a will which was proved and allowed in Surry County, England, tends to prove no more than, — if he was French,—he had cast his lot, for church and perhaps other reasons, in England, there to hold his home, even after the venture to America had been resolved upon, and until affairs in New England should become shap'd, as they had not, at the time of his death, occurring, as Bradford says, "the first winter," early in 1621. Doubtless the French spelling of the name was Molyne, rendered in English, Mollins or Mullins, — it has been spelled both ways, in being anglicized.

+ It seems, by the will of William Mollins, that he left back in England a married daughter, Sarah (Mollins) Blanden, and a son, William, Jr. This will provided that William Mollins, Jr., was to take his father's share of land in the Plymouth adventure, provided he, the son, should come to America. After the death of William, the father, William, the son, complied with this condition, received the land, and also other land granted him by Plymouth, in 1633. William, the younger, became a freeman in 1642; was on the list of soldiers in 1643; was of Middleborough in 1664, and died at Braintree, in 1672. The following is the Braintree record of his death:

+ "William Mullings dyed the 12 mo. 12, 1672."

If William Mollins was from Continental Europe, he, no doubt, was a Walloon. It is said that the name, Walloon, is from a river in France by that name. At any rate the Walloons resided near and on both sides of the boundary between France and Belgium, and spoke the French language. He probably at one time was of the French Church in Holland, located, first, at Amsterdam, where it remained about a year, and then, for twelve years, at Leyden. It must be concluded that, from some cause, he and some other French Huguenots, became allied with the English Church in the latter, if not in both, cities; for he went with the English back to England, and thence, with them, to America. Perhaps he found the English, in their dealings and methods, more congenial. Bradford records that the magistrates of Leyden commended the English and reproved the Walloons. Bradford's account of it here follows :

“Ye magistrates of ye citie, about ye time of their coming away, or a little before, in ye publick place of justice gave this commendable testimony of them, in ye reproof of the Walloons, who were of ye French Church in ye citie. These English, said they, have lived amongst us now this 12 years, and yet we never had any sute or accusation come against any of them ; but your strifs & quarels are continuall.”

+ Of John Alden, as a Mayflower passenger, Gov. Bradford wrote :

“John Alden was hired for a cooper, at South-Hampton, wher the ship victuled ; and being a hopful yong man, was much desired, but left to his owne liking to go or stay when he come here, but he stayed, and maryed here.” Bradford's His. of Plymouth, p. 533.

Thirty years later Bradford wrote :

“John Alden married with Priscila, Mr. Mollines his daughter, and had issue by her as is before related.” Ibid, p. 539.

In going backwards, from South-Hampton, and 1620, in so far as I have been able to learn, the John Alden trail is lost ; or, at least, has not been discovered. Doubtless, anything and everything written concerning him, prior to his shipping for a cooper on the Mayflower, and regarding his ancestry and nationality has been conjecture, with hardly a hint to build upon. Under this head Mrs. Charles L. Alden says : “I think he was of English stock, from the Southern part of England, as evidenced by ‘marriages’ in London, etc. The name occurs in Norway, spelled Auldin or Auldine. My sister, while travelling there, came across two little peasant boys ; one of them resembling my little son, John Alden. She was induced to ask his name, and was startled by the reply, ‘Jan Aulden’”. Mrs. Alden also finds that the name of Alden is not uncommon in Germany.

The Rev. William Elliot Griffis, a former pastor of the Shawmut Congregational Church, Boston, and later a clergyman in Ithaca, N. Y., thinks John Alden was Irish born and bred. He states that after considerable search, he is unable to find the name of Alden in the English towns and cities before the early part of the 17th century. He concludes that the Aldens, at first a Norman family, went over and settled in Ireland. If it is a fact, that the name, Alden, does not appear in England prior to 1600, and does appear there later, of course it is evident that some of the name went over into England from somewhere, probably from Norway, Germany or Ireland. We, therefore, have pretty good grounds for the theory, that John, the Pilgrim, was, by extraction at least, either Norman, German or Irish. It has been rather assumed, but not proved, that he was English. It is along the line of the latter supposition that tradition has it that he "was of a fine type of the Saxon."

In so far as I have been able to learn, John Alden left no hint as to his lineage or nationality. That he did not was, perhaps, characteristic of the man. So, too, he did not have the dates of the births of his children recorded. Those dates have been a matter of deduction from other facts. That the John Alden trail, in Europe, back of South-Hampton, has not been discovered, seems clear. So far as known, there are but few hints to guide the tracer. Any one may theorize upon the question; but, until a verified trail is struck, we must take him up when and where the preserved facts find him, and where and when he found the Mayflower, at South-Hampton, in 1620.

There was a Robert Alden, presumably of some place in England, in 1626, who, that year, was one of the 42, back in England, who agreed to sell their interest in the New Plymouth Adventure to those in America, and to such as should thereafter join them here. This Robert Alden may have been and probably was a stockholder in the enterprise at its inception and in 1620. It is possible and quite probable that John was a relative of Robert Alden, and through the latter learned of the expedition of the Pilgrims, found and joined the Mayflower at South-Hampton, with, as Bradford informs us, the right to remain or to return with the ship.

A few days before the Pilgrims landed, namely, on the 11th day of Nov., 1620, they signed what has been called "The Compact of the Pilgrims," which was to be, and, in fact, became the fundamental law for the government of the Colony. John Alden was one of the signers. From this fact we may infer that, before the landing, he had concluded to cast his lot with the Mayflower party. It is said that he was the youngest signer of that memorable compact, and that, "at the time, he was about 22 years of age." Mrs. Charles L. Alden finds warrant for saying that John Alden was born in 1599; this would make him 21 years old in 1620. Tradition has brought him down as then a stripling. President Adams, a descendant of John Alden, mentions him as "the stripling who first leaped upon the rock" (Plymouth Rock) at the landing.

John Alden, young as he was, took a place in the front rank of the men of the Colony from the start, which proves that the estimation put upon him by the Mayflower band, at South-Hampton, namely, that he was a "hopful yong man," was correct.

During the years 1626 and 1627 the members of the Adventure and the Signers of the Compact, residing at New Plymouth, negotiated for the stock, or interest, of the owners back in England. These negotiations resulted in a sale by the non-resident to the resident owners and to such as the resident owners might determine could join them from time to time, as a sort of common weal or common wealth; and it also resulted in a debt due the former from the latter of 1800 pounds Sterling, with interest, at 30 per cent. The Colony and individuals contracted other debts in England, chiefly, if not wholly, in London, which drew from 30 to 60 per cent interest. It became impossible for the colonial organization to meet its payments at maturity, whereby its credit was becoming impaired. It was necessary that the credit of the Colony should be kept good in order to prevent the ruin thereof. Mrs. Charles L. Alden finds warrant for saying that John Alden, with William Bradford, Isaac Allerton, Miles Standish, William Brewster, John Howland and others of the principal men of the Colony became surety for the payment of the public debt. The joint personal obligation of these men strengthened and saved the credit of the Colony.

In 1624 a division of land took place among the colonists. A division of cattle was made in May, 1627. In this last division the family of John Alden is given as follows: "John Alden, Priscilla Alden, Elizabeth Alden², aged 3, John Alden², aged 1." This year (1627) John Alden removed to Duxbury, Mass. and "settled on the land which had been granted to him on the south side of Blue Fish river and built his house on a rise of land near Eagle Tree pond." The farm he made is said to have become the best one in Duxbury.

John Carver was confirmed Governor of the Colony just before the landing in 1620. He died in office in April, 1621. Soon after, William Bradford was chosen. At the time, Bradford was just recovering from a severe illness. For this reason "Isaack Allerton was chosen to be an Assistant unto him, who, by renewed elections every year continued sundry years together."

Until the year 1624 the governor had but one official Assistant; in 1624 the Colony elected five, "giving the governor a dubble voyce, and afterwards they increased them to seven."

The illness, then, of William Bradford, at the time of his elevation to the office of Governor of Plymouth, in 1621, was the cause of the institution of the body called "Assistants to the Governor," during colonial days, which, in the Federal States is known as "The Governor's Council."

In his "Family Memorial, Part 1, Genealogy of Fourteen Families of the Early Settlers of New England, by the Names of Alden, Adams, Arnold, Bass, Billings, Capen, Copeland, French, Hobart, Jackson, Paine, Thayer, Wales and White," Elisha Thayer says: "All these families are more or less connected by marriage and most of them, of late generations the descendants of John Alden."

This work was published in 1835, and Thayer informs us that the material used was "collected from ancient records, manuscripts and printed works."

Thayer says that John Alden was an Assistant to all the governors of the Old Colony except Carver. The life of the Old Colony was from the signing of the Compact on board the Mayflower, Nov. 11, 1620, until 1692, when the charter uniting the Old Colony with that of Mass. arrived. From this time the governors and lieut. governors were appointed by Royal authority. The governmental rights of the two Colonies were infringed and suspended by the commission of King James to Sir Edmund Andros, for two years or less, beginning with Dec. 1686. On the coming of William and Mary to the throne of England, the rights of the Colonies were restored and elections continued until 1692 as above stated. Alden died in 1687, the next year after the arrival of Andros with the commission of James. Alden, then, did not live to see the rights and liberties of the people of his Colony restored, and died in the belief that those liberties were at an end.

It seems to be agreed that John Alden was one of the Assistants to the Governor in 1633. That year Winslow was elected Governor. If Alden was upon the board of Assistants to Bradford it must have been previously to 1633. He was an Assistant for a number of years after 1633. From 1640 to 1650 he was Representative from Duxbury to the General Court. In 1650, by election, he was made Assistant to the Governor again; and so, for each succeeding year, he was elected to that office, until the coming of Andros in Dec., 1686. This made him thirty-six consecutive elections, to the office of Assistant to the Governor. From 1666 to his displacement by the government of Andros, Alden was first on the board of Assistants, and was styled Deputy Governor, as it was a duty of his to act as governor in the absence of that officer.

After the first few years of his American life, John Alden was almost continuously engaged in the public service, and had and held the confidence of his fellow colonists. In addition, and among other places of public trust and private responsibility, in the patent for Plymouth, in New England, dated January 16, 1629, and signed by Robert, Earl of Warwick, Myles Standish, Edward Winslow, John Howland and John Alden, or any of them, are named as the true and lawful attornies of the Council established at Plymouth. Accordingly John Alden took possession in due form and delivered the full and peaceable possession and seizin of the same to William Bradford, Governor of the Old Colony. In 1653, and for several succeeding years he was also one of the Council of War, appointed on account of danger feared from the Indians. He was chosen Treasurer of the Old Colony in 1656, and held that office for three consecutive years. He often acted as arbitrator, and as a surveyor of lands for individuals and for the government.

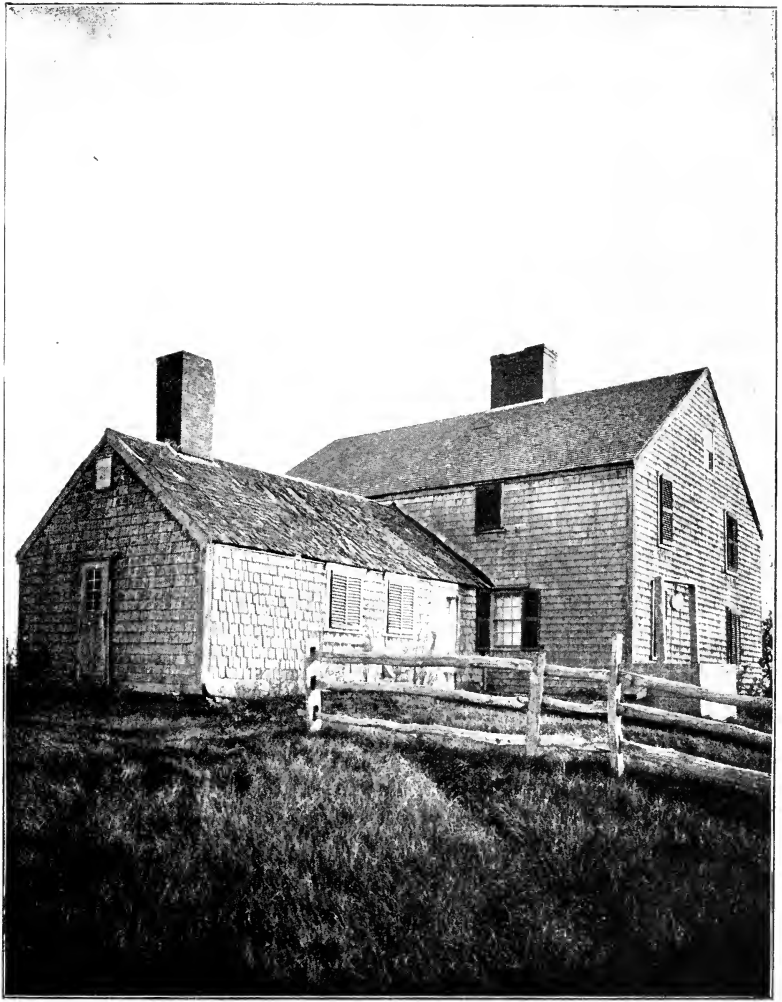

It is most probable the finding of Thayer, that John Alden was chosen Assistant unto all the Governors of the Old Colony, excepting Carver, is correct. If so, he was upon Bradford's Council of Assistants and was elected to the place earlier than 1633, since Bradford was not elected Governor after 1632. The finding that Alden was elected an Assistant in 1633 does not prove he was not elected as such earlier than that date. Mrs. Charles L. Alden says he was not an Assistant from 1640 to 1650, and that during the period last named he was Representative to the General Court from Duxbury. I think it does not follow that he was not an Assistant while a Representative merely from the fact that he was a Representative; because it does not appear that, at that time, the two offices last named were incompatible. It does appear that for the years 1656-7 and 8 Alden was an Assistant to the Governor and Treasurer of the Old Colony as well.

The traditional courtship of Miles Standish, in which he, Alden and Priscilla Mollins were the chief actors, and, in which Standish did not seem to do much of the wooing and did less of the winning, has been preserved by Elisha Thayer, a lineal descendant of Alden, in his work above referred to. He gives the following account of it :

“It is well known that of the first Company, consisting of 101, about one-half died in six months after landing, in consequence of the hardships they were called to encounter. Mrs. Rose Standish, consort of Capt. Standish, departed this life on the 29th of January, 1621. This circumstance is mentioned as an introduction to the following anecdote, which has been carefully handed down by tradition :

“In a very short time after the decease of Mrs. Standish, the Captain was led to think that if he could obtain Miss Priscilla Mollins, a daughter of Mr. William Mollins, the breach in his family would be happily repaired. He therefore, according to the custom of those times, sent to ask the permission of Mr. Mollins to visit his daughter. John Alden, the messenger, went and faithfully communicated the wishes of the Captain. The old gentleman did not object, as he might have done, on account of the recency of the Captain's bereavement. He said it was perfectly agreeable to him, but the young lady must be consulted. The damsel was then called in, and John Alden arose and in very courteous manner, delivered his errand. Miss Mollins listened with respectful attention, and at last, after a considerable pause, fixed her eyes upon him and said, 'Prythee, John, why do you not speak for yourself?'" The account further states that thereupon, in much confusion young Alden retired, to extricate himself from his perplexing position, as best he could. As Longfellow sings it :

JOHN ALDEN'S HOMESTEAD, DUXBURY, MASS.

" Into the open air John Alden perplexed and bewildered, Rushed like a man insane, and wandered alone by the seaside."

Whatever grains of fact the tradition may have had, Longfellow's song has immortalized it. John Alden and Priscilla Mollins were married in 1621 or 2. There seems to have been the same neglect, on the part of Alden, as to the preservation of this record, as others, concerning himself and family.

+ Children of John and Priscilla (Mollins) Alden :

1. Elizabeth², born about 1624; married William Paybody of Little Compton, R. I. She died May 31, 1717. The following notice of her death appeared in the Boston-News Letter of June 17, 1717 :

" Little Compton, 31 May. This morning died here Mrs. Elizabeth Paybody, late wife of Mr. William Paybody, in the 93d, year of her age. She was a daughter of John Alden Esq. and Priscilla his wife, daughter of Mr. William Mollins. This John Alden and Priscilla Mollins were married at Plymouth in New England, where their daughter, Elizabeth was born. She was exemplary, virtuous and pious, and her memory is blessed. She has left a numerous posterity. Her granddaughter Bradford is a grandmother."

2. John², born in 1626; removed to Boston as early as 1659. According to Thayer he married twice, first, to Elizabeth _____, by whom he had Mary, born Dec. 17, 1659; married, second, to Elizabeth Ewriill, widow of Abiel Ewriill, by whom he had twelve children, namely, John, Elizabeth, John 2nd, William, Elizabeth 2nd, William 2nd, Zachariah, William 3rd, Nathaniel, Zachariah 2nd, Nathan and Sarah. This John Alden², son of John¹, was distinguished as "John Alden, Senior." He died March 14, 1702.

3. Joseph², born in 1627; married Mary Simmons; was one of the original settlers of Bridgewater, Mass. He had three children, Isaac³, Joseph³, and John³.
4. Sarah², born in 1629; married Alexander Standish², son of Captain Miles Standish¹, "The Captain of Plymouth "
5. Jonathan², born in 1632; married, Dec. 10, 1672, Abigail Ralat; inherited and occupied his father's homestead farm in Duxbury, and had four sons.
They were: 1st, Andrew³ who settled in Lebanon, Conn. 2nd, Jonathan³ who also settled in Lebanon, and whose son, Deacon Austin Alden⁴, settled in Gorham, Maine. 3rd, John³ who inherited the Alden homestead farm in Duxbury, taken up by his grandfather, Hon. John Alden¹, in 1627. Thayer says (1835) this farm has remained in the possession of the family since. John³ was a Colonel of militia. He died July 24, 1739. 4th, Deacon Benjamin⁴ who was drowned April 14, 1741.
- + 6. Ruth², born in 1634; married, Dec. 3, 1657, John Bass². (Treated further.)
7. Rebecca², born about 1637; probably died without issue, before the death of her father, as neither she nor any representative appears to the deed of settlement of her father's estate, made June 13th, 1688.
8. Priscilla², date of birth unknown. In so far as I have learned the only record of her is where she signed the deed of settlement of her father's estate.
9. Zachariah², of whom I find no further record.
10. Mary², born about 1643; became the wife of Thomas Dillano, doubtless the son of Philip Delano, or, in French, De la Noye, of the Leyden, Holland, Congregation, who followed the first Mayflower party and was in New Plymouth in 1623.

11. David², born in 1646.

The deed of settlement of the estate of Hon. John Alden¹ among his heirs, as copied in the Probate Records for Plymouth county, Mass., Vol. 1, is as follows:

“ We, whose names are subscribed personally interested in the estate of John Alden, senior, of Duxbury, Esquire, lately deceased, do hereby acknowledge ourselves to have received, each of us, our full personal proportion thereof from Jonathan Alden, Administrator thereof, do by these presents for ourselves, our heirs and executors acquit, discharge fully the said Jonathan Alden, his heirs forever, of and from all rights, dues, demands, whatsoever, relating to the aforesaid estate.

In witness whereof we have hereunto subscribed and sealed this 13th day of June, Anno Domini, 1688.

Soon after his marriage he removed to Taunton, Mass., and was one of the original grantees of "The Taunton North Purchase," conveyed by "the country's agents" to him and his son Nicholas², and 53 others. The deed bears date June 6, 1668. This grant contained an area of about 50 square miles. Out of this grant were made the towns of Easton, Norton and Mansfield. He also figured in the "Taunton South Purchase;" was an owner in the Taunton Iron Works; was an owner of Block Island. He was a one-fourth owner of a saw mill on Mill river. Silence (Lane⁷) Copeland was a great, great, great granddaughter of George² and Sarah (Harris²) Lane. Sarah was daughter of Walter¹ and Mary (Fay) Harris. George Lane² was born in England and came to America with the family of his father, William Lane¹.

This Lane line down, in America, is William¹, the immigrant; George², coming with his father; John³; Benjamin⁴; Seth⁵; Joseph⁶; and Silence (Lane⁷) Copeland, wife of William Copeland⁵.

+ William Lane¹, was a resident in Dorchester, Mass., as early as 1635. His name is on a list of 71 inhabitants of Dorchester in 1641. He had a competent property, and was a farmer. I have found no account of his wife. His children, in the order mentioned in his will, were:

1. Elizabeth², born in England; married Thomas Ryder; came to America in 1634.
2. Mary², born in England; married, first, James Long, who lived and died in England. Mary² then came to America and married, second, Joseph Farnsworth of Dorchester.
3. Annie², born in England; married Thomas Lincoln in 1630, and settled in Hingham, Mass., in 1635.

+ 4. George², of Hingham, married Sarah Harris, as before stated.

- 5. Sarah², born in England; married Nathaniel Baker of Hingham.

+ George Lane² was one of the early settlers of Hingham, Mass.

Children of George² and Sarah (Harris) Lane:

1. * Sarah³, baptized March 3, 1637.
2. Hannah³, baptized Feb. 24, 1638.
3. Josiah³, baptized May 23, 1641.
4. Susannah³, baptized June 23, 1644.
5. Elizabeth³, born 1646.
- + 6. John³, born June 20, 1648.
7. Eleazer³, baptized Aug. 25, 1650.
8. Mary³, born April 11, 1653.
9. Peter³, born July 21, 1656.

George Lane², died June 11, 1689. His widow, Sarah, died March 26, 1694.

+ The children of John Lane³ have been named.

The children of Benjamin Lane⁴, who was born at Norton, Feb. 15, 1698, and who married Hepzibah Moss, I have not, other than Seth⁵, born April, 1728, and who married, June 28, 1750, Hannah Skinner³, in her line, daughter of Thomas Skinner², and granddaughter of Thomas Skinner¹, the immigrant, who came from Chichester, England, about 1650, and settled in Malden, Mass. Neither have I the children of Seth⁵ and Hannah (Skinner) Lane, other than their son, Joseph⁶, born in June, 1751, and who, on April 11, 1775, married Silence Wetherell, and had a daughter, Silence⁷, in our Lane line, and who became the wife of William Copeland⁵.

While there is little, if any, doubt that Silence (Wetherell) Lane⁷ was a lineal descendant of William Wetherell¹, the immigrant, of Taunton first, and the first settler of Norton, I have not discovered all the links in the chain of evidence; therefore cannot state it as a fact. At present it rests in a most probable theory. In the first place Wetherell is not, nor has it been, a very common name in New England. Early in the history of the colonies, in Mass., there were three of the name. Rev. William Wetherell, of Duxbury, and later minister of Scituate, Mass., came to America in 1634. There was, also, a John Wetherell, first at Cambridge, and later a proprietor of Watertown, Mass. It is found that John was in Cambridge in 1635. The third of this name was William of Taunton and Norton; and, inasmuch as Norton was settled from Taunton and Mansfield from Norton largely, it is more than probable, that the Norton and Mansfield Wetherells, in generations succeeding that of the immigrants, were descended from William¹, of Taunton and Norton. So confident am I that this is the case, and that the links in the chain I have missed will yet be found and fitted in, that I will here preserve something of what I have found relating to William Wetherell¹ of Taunton and Norton, who, through his three sons, William², John² and Ephraim², founded a family in America. These three sons, together with his daughter, Dorothy (Wetherell²) Wood, are mentioned in his will, dated Aug. 15, 1691, probated the same year. He has had a numerous posterity in Norton and Mansfield.

“ Tradition says that this William Wetherell— whose name will ever be a household word to the people of Norton— came from England, in the capacity of a cabin-boy, with William Dunn, the master of the vessel, and one of the original proprietors of Taunton, who is said to have returned to England, leaving his cabin-boy in charge of his proprietary, with the understanding, that, if he (Dunn) did not return to claim it, the right should escheat to young Wetherell; and such was the result ”

This tradition has the strong confirmation of the Taunton records. Just before King Phillip's War, and in 1675, a list of the proprietors of Taunton was made; and on this list is the name of William Wetherell, who owned “ on his own right and that which was Mr. Dunn's.”

What year William Wetherell¹ came to America is not known. He was made freeman in 1658. It appears of record in Taunton that in 1643 he was on the list of those subject to military duty. In the division of land in Taunton in 1659, he received his ratable proportion. It seems that in 1669 he sold his interest in Taunton proper, including “ five acres, more or less, which were granted to him by the town for a home-lotte.” On the same day there were laid out and set off to him, in four lots about sixty acres, in what became Norton. His name appears several times between 1650 and 1690, on the Grand Inquest. He was Constable in Taunton in 1662 and 1676. In 1671 and 1685 he was Representative to the General Court. He was Representative to a Special Court held in Oct. and Nov., 1676; was a selectman in 1685. June 2, 1685, he was licensed "to retail cider, beer and strong liquors." In May, 1680, he was appointed on a Committee "to revise the town orders, records of land," etc. He was an "Eldest Sergeant in Captain Garrom's Company in the great Narragansett-Swamp fight," in 1675, in South Kingston, R. I. He was wounded in that battle, and received a grant of land because of it. In 1685, he received, in consequence of this wound, a grant of ten pounds Sterling; and in 1688, a further grant of five pounds. He held two rights, his own and that of Captain William Dunn, in the original purchase of Taunton; and half a right in the North purchase; and one right in the South purchase. He died in Norton in 1691.

+ William Copeland⁵, when about 21 years of age, removed from Mansfield, Mass., to that part of Orrington, Maine, which was afterwards Brewer, and that part of Brewer later incorporated as Holden, and to that particular locality, in Holden, which has, since the first settlement there, been known as "The Wiswell Neighborhood," so called in honor of its first settler, George Wiswell, who came from Norton, Mass., and doubtless, was a descendant Noah Wiswell, who united with the Church in the latter place, in 1757, and died there in 1813, aged 84 years.

In the above neighborhood, and on the road leading from East Orrington to what is now Holden Centre, William Copeland⁵ purchased quite an extensive tract of farming and timber land, and thereon commenced to make his homestead. This tract of land was, at the time of its purchase, covered with a dense forest. Acre after acre was cleared, and a home, a farm, a competence and a goodly estate resulted. For many years William Copeland⁵ served on the board of selectmen of Brewer. He held a commission as a justice of the peace and throughout the whole Country Side was known as "Squire Copeland." His whole business life was devoted to agriculture and the local public service. He was 1st Sergeant of

SILENCE (LANE?) COPELAND.

Captain Solomon Blake's Company, the Brewer Company, Major Thomas George's Battalion, of the 4th Mass. Regiment, 1st Brigade, and was in the Hampden battle, in Sept., 1814. On the promotion of Captain Solomon Blake to the Coloneley, Sergeant William Copeland was promoted to the Captaincy, and was with his Company at the review of his (the 10th Mass) Division by Gov. John Brooks in 1818. The Division was then in command of Major General Jedediah Herrick of Hampden, who had succeeded Major General John Blake of Brewer.

+ William Copeland⁵ united with the Congregational Church at East Brewer, (later Holden,) June 4, 1832. By his will his homestead farm went to his youngest son, Benjamin Franklin Copeland⁶, who, in 1854 or 5, sold it to Charles F. Hart, a son of George and Catherine (Comins) Hart, and a grandson of Captain Jacob and Jerusha (King) Hart, the latter the parents of Nancy (Hart) Clark, wife of Nathian Clark⁷ in our line, of Mendon, Mass., and of Orrington, Brewer and Holden, Maine.

Not only, by the above sale, did the homestead farm, one of the best in Holden, of William Copeland⁵, pass from ownership by any one of the name, but, in the course of events, there is, at this writing, (A. D. 1901) no one living, of the many descendants of William Copeland⁵, who bears his surname.

+ William Copeland⁵ died in Brewer (now Holden,) Feb. 10, 1849, aged 70 yr. 3 mo. 22 da. His widow, Silence (Lane) Copeland, died in Holden, Aug. 22, 1853, aged 72 yr. 4 mo. 26 da.

Generation 6. Sophronia Copeland⁶, (William⁵, William⁴, Benjamin³, William², Lawrence¹,) was born in Orrington, in that part now Holden, Nov. 23, 1807; married, Nov. 10, 1837, Charles Blake of Brewer, now Holden, born March 29, 1794, son of General John and Mary (Dupee) Blake. John, the father of Charles Blake, was born in Wrentham, Mass., Aug. 29, 1753. He was, therefore, in his 22nd year, when the battle of Lexington was fought, April 19, 1775. At that time young Blake was a Sergeant in Captain Oliver Pond's Company of Light Infantry, a Wrentham Company. This company was hastily called out and John Blake at once enlisted as a sergeant, for eight months. By repeated reenlistments he served as a Sergeant and Ensign continuously for 5 yr. 5 mo. 25 da., having been appointed Ensign by General Washington in 1776.

The summer of 1786 John Blake spent surveying the land of the then unexplored region, now Holden, Maine. Here six miles east of Penobscot River, on the opposite side thereof from Bangor, he purchased a lot of land on the southerly slope of Potash Hill, erected a log-cabin, and, in 1787 with his wife and two children, moved into it. At that time there was no other settler nearer him than the river front six miles away. He gave his new Settlement the name of "New Wrentham in the District of Maine." The pioneer, Blake, did not remain isolated long. Others, from his native Wrentham and towns in its vicinity, soon followed him; and he had, for neighbors, John Farrington, Silas Winchester, Captain Jacob Hart, Samuel Gilmore, David Mann, Ebenezer Fisher, Major Thomas George, and Isaac Clewley, all Revolutionary Soldiers.

When the town of Orrington was incorporated, in 1788, it included the Blake Settlement; but it was known as "New Wrentham," until the incorporation of Holden in 1852. Probably but few persons are now living who recall hearing the place called Wrentham.

John Blake was, for thirty years, agent of the Penobscot Tribe of Indians, under the government of the Commonwealth of Mass. In 1799 he was appointed, by President Adams, Captain, 15th Infantry, U. S. Army. He held military commissions from all the Governors of Mass. of his time, who promoted him successively, from the rank of Lieutenant in 1786, to Major General in 1816. He was often the Agent or Representative of the District of Maine, to the General Court of Mass.

On Sept. 3, 1814, during the war of 1812, the Hampden Battle, so called, was fought, or took place. Brig. Gen'l John Blake was in command of the 1st Brigade, 10th Division of the Mass. Militia, which were the only American land forces in the vicinity of the hostilities. Hampden and Bangor were captured by the British, as other towns farther down the Penobscot had been. While this affair was, at the time, and has been since, the subject of some criticism, it would seem the worst that can fairly be said about it is, that, at the time, there appeared to be, perhaps, two sides to the question. To such an extent did this appearance obtain that Lieutenant Colonel Andrew Grant of Hampden and Major Joshua Chamberlain of Brewer felt called upon to make a complaint against General Blake, which resulted in a Court of Inquiry. This Court, Major General Henry Sewall of Augusta, Maine, President, closed its hearing Jan. 8, 1816, and found, "That the charges do not appear to be so far supported as to render a reference of them to a Court Martial expedient or proper." Soon after, Mass. promoted Blake, and he received the commission of a Major General.

"The war of '12" was one of the United States with England and not one of Mass., to any greater extent than that Mass. was one of the United States. It was, of course, no more a war of the Province or District of Maine, than it was of Mass. During that war the District of Maine was, perhaps, more exposed than any other territory belonging to the United States; yet, it does not appear that the General Government at Washington or the Mass. State Government at Boston took measures, other than to leave local militia organizations pretty much to themselves, and to do little, much or no fighting, by way of protecting the North Eastern frontier. It does not appear that General Blake received any orders from any superior. Nor does it appear that Captain Charles Maurice, Commander of the United States Corvette, Adams, then at Hampden, had orders. But, on the contrary, he seems to have acted at discretion. It does appear that Blake and Maurice failed to agree upon a plan of battle. Neither had jurisdiction over, or to order, the other. Blake was in, and in the service of Mass.; Maurice was in the service of the United States, but in Mass. The result of the day at Hampden was but the logic of the "masterly inactivity," the mildest term, perhaps, applied by the war party of that time, to the position of the other party, which was not heartily in accord with the war, which a majority in New England were not, as Mass. also was not.

Whether more vigorous war measures would have been best, upon the whole, is a question; but it is evident enough that both Blake and Maurice wanted to fight the English at Hampden. The council called by Blake, at which Maurice was present, was divided. Some of Blake's officers and citizen soldiers were opposed to a defensive fight; others were in favor. But Blake and Maurice did not agree upon a plan of defense, and had not when the enemy came upon them. No doubt this failure of the two independent commanders, one of the army, one of the navy, to agree, had a more or less demoralizing effect upon the militia of General Blake's Brigade.

Captain Maurice had taken the guns out of the Adams and planted two batteries, one near the river, the other a short distance back, upon the brow of a hill. This hill battery could rake the river, and, if necessary, do so over the heads of the shore battery, without harm to men or guns. He had not men enough to work his guns and defend against an attack upon his right flank, had the enemy landed below and marched against him. There were about 3000 in the British troop. To engage this English force fell to the lot of General Blake and his Brigade. The line of battle was formed; and, after a few rounds had been exchanged, it was perceived that the Centre of Blake's line was giving way, and the men had begun to retreat without orders. This break was a fatal one. It became general, and all effort of the officers to hold or rally the men was unavailing, and the retreat became a rout. General Blake was left upon the field without a command. He was seen later in the day, wending his way, afoot and alone, toward Bangor, apparently in as dazed a state as Napoleon is said to have wandered, afoot and leading his horse by the bridle, after Waterloo. Captain Maurice seeing his batteries unsupported and the enemy coming upon him in great numbers, spiked his guns and abandoned them and the field.

"It was the English, Gaspar cried,
Who put the French to rout;
But what they killed each other for,
I could not well make out."

In vain, we look into the Treaty of 1814, for the causes of the war.

In the American Blake line, Charles, whose second wife was Sophronia Copeland⁶, was of the 6th generation. The line back is as follows: His father, General John Blake⁵, John⁴, of Boston and Wrentham, Mass.; Jonathan³, of Boston, who was a Major, a Lawyer and a Quaker; Edward², born in England, and settled in Dorchester, Mass.; and William¹, who was baptized in Pitminster Parish, near Taunton, in Somersetshire, England, June 5, 1594. William Blake¹ with his wife, who was Mrs. Agnes Bent, and five children, came to America with the 1630 Winthrop party.

Their children were: William², born Sept. 6, 1620; James², born April 25, 1623; Edward², born in 1625; John², born in 1627; and Ann², born in 1619. They came to America with the 1630 Winthrop party. They came in the Ship "Mary and John," and landed at Nantasket, Mass., now Hull, May 30, of that year. The family settled in Dorchester, in that part now Milton.

Charles Maurice Blake⁷, A. M., M. D., of San Francisco, Cal., son of Charles⁶, by his first marriage, has, by the parish records in England, traced his Blake line back to Robert de Blakeland who was assessed in the Wiltshire Roll of "Subsidies" granted, in 1286, to Edward I. Robert de Blakeland had a son Robert, who dropped the "de" and the "land" from his name, and became Robert Blake. He and his descendants have since borne the name of Blake. The findings of Charles Maurice Blake⁷, based on his tracings back in England, from William Blake¹, the American immigrant, give the following :

William Blake¹, in England*, father of William¹, in America, was baptized May 12, 1566, at Pitminster and was buried there, June 26, 1627 or 8.

John Blake², in England, father of William¹, in England, was born in 1521; he succeeded to the Manor of Plainfield, and to the patronage of Asholt Church, and bequeathed the advowson of the church of Overstoe to his son Richard. This John Blake², in England, was buried under the latter church, Dec. 10, 1576. He had a brother Humphrey, named for his father, who was the father of Robert Blake, the famous English Admiral of Cromwell's time.

Humphrey Blake³, in England, father of John², in England, removed, in the early part of the 16th century, into Somersetshire, England, and became lord of the Manor of Plainfield, situate on the easterly side of the Quantock Hills.

William Blake⁴, in England, father of Humphrey³, in England, resided in Old Hall, in the parish of Andover; he died in 1547, as his will was both dated and proved that year.

William Blake⁵, in England, father of William⁴, in England, lived in White Parish; died in 1471.

Robert Blake⁶, in England, father of William⁵, in England, was of Calne and Quemberford; he and his wife, Avice, daughter of John Wallop, Esq., were buried under, and had a memorial window in Crane Church.

* In tracing, back in England or elsewhere in Europe, the line of a Pilgrim or immigrant who seated a family in America, the numbering by superior figures is reversed. The English or European parent of the come-over is designated first, and his ancestors are given the higher numbers as the search or record is carried backward. To the numbering by superior figures are added the words "in England."

Henry Blake⁷, in England, father of Robert⁶, in England, was of Calne and married Margaret Billott.

William Blake⁸, in England, father of Henry⁷, in England, married Margaret, daughter of Thomas Power.

Henry Blake⁹, in England, was the father of William⁸, in England.

Robert Blake¹⁰, in England, father of Henry⁹, in England, married Anne, daughter of William Cole. He had his residence in Calne Co. Witts. This was the Robert Blake who dropped the "de" and the "land" from the name, as above stated.

Robert de Blakeland¹¹, in England, father of Robert¹⁰, in England, was assessed on the Wiltshire Roll in 1286, as above stated.

The mother of Charles Blake⁶, as before stated, was Mary Dupee, daughter of Charles and Hannah (Smith) Dupee of Wrentham, Mass., a descendant of a Huguenot family of Picardy, France, who fled persecution and came to Boston in 1685. Elizabeth, a sister of Mary Dupee, married Col. Solomon Blake, who settled in the "New Wrentham Settlement." Lydia, another sister, married Billings Brastow who settled in Brewer.

Charles Blake⁶, married, first, Jan. 8, 1815, Mary, daughter of Silas and Sarah (King) Winchester, of the New Wrentham Settlement. She was a granddaughter of Samuel King of Wrentham, Mass., and a niece of Jerusha (King) Hart, wife of Captain Jacob Hart, and a cousin to Nancy (Hart) Clark, wife of Nathan Clark⁷, in our line of Clark.

She was daughter of Micajah and Hannah (Drury⁶) Gleason; married, first, Jacob Reed of Sudbury and had son, Micajah; married, second, Captain Norman Clark⁵, son of William⁴ and Mary (Marean) Clark, and a great, great grandson of Hugh Clark¹, the immigrant ancestor.

Samuel Clark⁸, in Drury, 6 in Clark, was born in Princeton, Mass., March 4, 1799. His wife was Sebrah, daughter of Luther and Andria (Chase) Cole of St. Charles, Mo., to which place they removed from Augusta, N. Y.

Harriet Carlina Clark⁹, in Drury, 7 in Clark, born at St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 6, 1827, daughter of Samuel and Sebrah (Cole) Clark, married, Dec. 27, 1848, Presby Gregg Baily⁶, in Baily.

Pery Emily Baily¹⁰, in Drury, was born in Grand Meadow, Iowa, Dec. 10, 1854, daughter of Presby Gregg and Harriet Carlina (Clark) Baily; married June 28, 1887, Frederick Horace Blake⁷, in Blake. Their children were: Baily¹¹, Harriet¹¹, Helen¹¹, and Frederick H. Blake¹¹, in Drury.

Pery Emily (Baily) Blake is a lineal descendant of William Cloud¹ of Calne, England, who purchased land in Chester County, Pa., in 1682. He died in Concord, Pa. His will mentions his sons, Joseph², William², Jeremiah², John² and Robert². The son, Jeremiah, had three sons, Jeremiah³, Mordecai³ and David³. Mordecai³ married, Feb. 12, 1714, Sarah, daughter of Francis and Grace (Stanfield) Chard and settled in Pocopson, Pa. He was the father of Elizabeth⁴, in Cloud, who became the wife of William Baily³, in the Baily line. Mrs. Blake, is, therefore, of the 8th generation in the Cloud line.

Mrs. Blake is descended from the immigrant, Thomas Gleason¹, who took the oath of fidelity at Watertown, Mass., in 1652 or 3. He died in Cambridge, Mass., about 1684. Her line down is as follows:

Thomas Gleason², of Sudbury, Mass., in 1665; died in Framingham, July 25, 1705. John Gleason³, of Sherbon and Framingham, Mass., died at the latter place, May 9, 1740. War, as before stated, and was killed at the battle of White Plains in Oct. 1776. Betty (Gleason) (Reed) Clark⁶, baptized, Sept. 2, 1764, was wife — her second marriage — of Captain Norman Clark; lived in Princeton, Mass. Samuel Clark⁷, in Gleason, born March 4, 1799, in Princeton, Mass.; married Sebrah Cole; died in St. Charles, Mo., Aug. 3, 1840. LINE OF RICE

- + In the Rice line, Eliza Catherine (Rice) Clark is of the 9th generation in America, counting Deacon Edmund Rice and his wife, Tamazine, the immigrants, as the 1st.

The name, Rice, is said to be of Welsh origin; and in Wales was written and spoken with the prefix, "Ap," as, "Ap Rice." In being anglicized the prefix has been dropped.

- + Nothing, it is believed, has been learned, on this side of the water, concerning Edmund Rice¹, who seated this family in America, prior to 1627. The records of Barkhamstead parish, Hertfordshire, England, show the following:

Baptized, 1627, March 9, Lydia, daughter of Edmund Rice.

Baptized, 1629, Feb. 28, Mathew, son of Edmund Rice.

Baptized, 1632, Nov. 1, Daniel, son of Edmund Rice.

Buried, 1632, Nov. 10, Daniel, son of Edmund Rice.

Baptized, 1634, Nov. 12, Samuel, son of Edmund Rice.

Baptized, 1637, March 13, Joseph, son of Edmund Rice.

The three eldest children of Edmund Rice¹, namely, Henry, Edward and Thomas, who came with the family to America, do not appear upon the Barkhamstead records, which points to the conclusion that the Rice residence was elsewhere prior to 1627. There does not seem to have been found the time of his leaving England, the ship he came in, when nor where he landed in the New World. He settled, first, in Sudbury, Mass., in 1638 or 9; second, in Marlborough, Mass. The date of his birth we have not.

EDMUND RICE¹ HOMESTEAD, 1639
WITH VIEW OF THE OLD SPRING SUDBURY, NOW WAYLAND, MASS.

A deposition given by him, April 3, 1656, on file at Cambridge, Mass., states his age then "about 62 years," hence he was born about 1594. His wife, Tamazine, died at Sudbury, June 13, 1654. This is the only mention or record found of her in America.

+ In 1656, Edmund Rice¹ with his wife, children and herds, with but few neighbors—at that time Sudbury included Wayland, and contained but 75 families—had lived in Sudbury 18 or 19 years, and, as the record says, were becoming "straightened for land." This year he, with 12 others of Sudbury, besought the General Court for a new plantation, in the words following:

"Whereas your petitioners have lived divers years in Sudbury, and God hath been pleased to increase our children, which are now divers of them, grown to men's estate, and we, many of us grown into years, so that we should be glad to see them settled before the Lord takes us away from hence; as also God having given us some considerable quantity of cattle, so that we are so straightened, that we cannot so comfortably subsist as could be desired; and some of us having taken some pains to view the country, we have found a place, which lieth westward about eight miles from Sudbury, which we conceive might be comfortable for our subsistence," &c.

The prayer of the petitioners was granted and a plantation was "laid" to them in 1660, which was called Marlborough.

It seems it took "some" of them "some pains," and how many years we are not informed, to explore the country eight miles to the westward of the settlement of Sudbury. This was not quite up to the John C. Fremont expedition West, as to time made or distance covered; nor yet up to the speed of Ben Holliday in his pony and stage scheme, overland from the East to California; but was more like the advancement made by Moses and the children of Israel, in crossing the desert lying between Egypt and the "Promised Land." Doubtless the children of Israel advanced as fast as the "Blazing Star" permitted, as it may be supposed the children of England, in America, found their way Westward, from the Atlantic, as speedily as the explorers gave them blazed tree lines to go upon.

+ On the organization of Marlborough, Deacon Edmund Rice¹ settled there. Previous to his removal he was, in 1644 and subsequent years, on the board of selectmen of Sudbury. He was chosen deacon of the church in the latter town in 1648. He executed several commissions from the General Court, and was a leading spirit in the settlement of Sudbury and Marlborough. He married, second, Mercy, widow of Thomas Brigham, of Cambridge, March 1, 1655. He died at Marlborough, May 3, 1663, and was buried at Sudbury.

GENERATION 2. Samuel Rice², (Edmund¹,) baptized in parish of Barkhampstead, England, Nov. 12, 1634; came with the family of his father to America in 1638 or 9; married, Nov. 8, 1655, Elizabeth King², and resided in Sudbury and Marlborough, Mass. Elizabeth King² was, no doubt, a daughter of Thomas¹, and a sister of Peter King², both early settlers of Sudbury and Marlborough.

Hudson, in his history of Sudbury, (1889,) gives a short biographical sketch of all the early settlers of that town, and those who were foremost in the settlement of the belt of towns about Sudbury. Thomas and Peter King are among the prominent ones treated; in fact, none others by the name of King are mentioned by Mr. Hudson, or are found in the Sudbury records of that early time.

Hon. Marquis F. King of Portland, Maine, in his address at Taunton, Mass., July 20, 1899, before the King Family Association, says:

“Peter King was a petitioner of Sudbury, Mass., in 1659, probably a son of Thomas, of same town. Peter King of Shaster, Dorset County, England, in his will, made in 1658, names his sons, Joseph and Peter, and also, his brother Thomas then ‘dwelling in New England.’”

Elizabeth (King²) Rice, wife of Samuel Rice², and who was the mother of the above named Elizabeth³, Hannah³, Joshua³, Edmund³, Esther³ and Samuel³, died when Samuel³ was about two weeks old. Samuel³ was given, by his father, to his, the father's "brother and sister King, for their own." These, no doubt, were Peter King² and his wife.

The will of Samuel Rice², dated Feb. 10, 1684, proved April 7, 1685, gives, among other heirs, "to my son Samuel Rice, whom I have given to brother and sister King for their own"

When this Samuel Rice³, who was as above stated given to his uncle and aunt King, and who was the last child of Elizabeth (King²) Rice, came to manhood, he was carried on the Sudbury records as "Samuel King, alias Rice." He married Abigail Clapp of Milton, Mass. The Sudbury records of his death and the death of his wife are as follows:

"Lt. Samuel King, alias Rice, died, March 4, 1713; Abigail King, alias Rice, widow of Samuel King, alias Rice, died July 6, 1713."

+ Children of Edmund³, and Ruth (Parker) Rice:

11. Ebenezer⁴, born Nov. 1, 1714; died young.
12. Anna⁴, born Feb. 20, 1716.

+ Edmund Rice³, died at Westboro, aged 63 years.

Edmund Rice³, had a cousin Thomas Rice³. Both families resided in Westboro, in 1704. On the 8th day of August of that year, as related by Whitney, and further preserved by Ward in his "Rice Family," the male members of both families were spreading flax near the woods, when, suddenly, a number of Indians rushed from their concealment and captured five of the Rice children; three, the children of Edmund³, as related above, namely, Silas⁴, Timothy⁴ and Nahor⁴, and two, Ashur⁴ and Adonijah⁴, sons of Thomas Rice³. Nahor was the youngest of the captured boys, being but five years of age, presumably, his captors thought, so young as to be too much trouble in their flight to Canada. The Indians at once killed Nahor, by a blow of the tomahawk upon the head. The other four boys were carried away to Canada. Ashur, some years after, was ransomed by his father, and returned to, settled in and united with the church at Westboro. His brother, Adonijah, remained with the Indians, and his after history is quite uncertain.

Dr. Stephen W. Williams, in his history of the Williams family, (1847,) says, "Feb. 29, 1704, Deerfield, Mass., was attacked and destroyed by the French and Indians — many killed, and 112 taken captive and marched for Canada."

By some it was thought that Adonijah Rice married some one of these captives, and that it was his daughter Marian De Rice, who married Thomas, the only child of Francis Ilere Rice and Catherine De Rogers. John De Rogers was an Indian, and married Eunice Williams, one of the captives taken from Deerfield, Mass., in 1704. Eunice was daughter of Rev. John and Eunice (Mather) Williams. Mrs. Williams was tomahawked to death on the march to Canada. Eunice, her daughter, survived; was eight years old at her capture, and died in Canada in 1786, aged 90 years.

Silas and Timothy Rice were taken to Canada, where they had Indian wives and children by them. Timothy became the third of six chiefs of the Cognawaga tribe. In that capacity he addressed a speech to Colonel Burgoyne, employed in an expedition against Canada in the French and Indian war of 1755. Colonel Burgoyne was afterwards the General Burgoyne who surrendered himself and his army to General Gates at Saratoga, during the American Revolution.

Timothy Rice visited Westboro, in September 1740, with an interpreter—he having lost his mother tongue—and viewed the place where he had lived when a child, and where he was captured in 1704. He had a clear recollection of several persons then living and of all the circumstances of his capture. Nothing, however, could induce him to remain at Westboro. He returned to Canada where he and his brother Silas were living in 1790.

+ Ruth (Parker) Rice, wife of Edmund³, died at some time between 1716 and 1720. For her youngest child, Anna⁴, was born, as stated above, Feb. 20, 1716; and Edmund³ married, second, June 23, 1720, Hannah Brown of Sudbury. There were no children by this second marriage. He died at Westboro in 1726, aged 63 years. His will, dated Aug. 10, 1726, proved Sept. 12, 1726, gave to wife Hannah; to son Seth⁴, "the eldest now with me," the north part of the farm; to son Eleazer⁴, the south part. The daughters Dinah (Rice⁴) Brigham, Huldah (Rice⁴) Wheelock, Thankful Rice⁴, Ruth Rice⁴ and Anna Rice⁴ were also mentioned. It seems the will does not mention his sons, Silas⁴ and Timothy⁴, the Indian captives of 1704.

He was chosen deacon of the same church April 19, 1738. He died at Westboro in 1796, aged 91 years. His widow, Dorothy, born Feb. 20, 1709, died June 21, 1801, in her 93rd year.

Here is resumed the line of Rice from page 133.

+ Children of John Wilkins⁸ and Catherine Boardman (Remick⁶) Rice:

- + 2. Eliza Catherine Rice⁹, in Rice, born in Hampden, Maine, Oct. 19, 1839; married, July 11, 1860, William Cope-land Clark⁹, in Clark, of Lincoln, Maine. (Treated further.)

5. John Melvin Rice⁹, born in Hampden, Aug. 24, 1841; married, March 31, 1861, at Houlton, Maine, Joanna Maria Thomas, born May 12, 1842, in Bangor, Maine. She was the daughter of David, born in Middleborough, Mass., April 9, 1807, and Mary Wood (Thompson) Thomas, who were married, Oct. 25, 1832, at Middleborough*, where Mary Wood Thompson was born March 16, 1812.

Joanna Maria (Thomas) Rice is descended from Peter Brown¹, John Howland¹, and John Tillie¹, all of whom came to Plymouth, Mass., in the Mayflower on the voyage of 1620, and were signers of the "Compact" before the landing. Her first line from and including Peter Brown¹, runs thus:

Peter Brown¹, married at Plymouth, Mass., in 1624, widow Martha Ford (or Ward.) Their daughter, Mary Brown², born 1627, married, in 1647, Ephraim Tinkham¹, born in Ashburton, near Plymouth, England, in 1616. He came to New Plymouth, Mass., as the ward of Timothy Hatchely, in 1630. His son, Ebenezer Tinkham³, in Brown, was born in 1651; and married Elizabeth Liscom. Their son Jeremiah Tinkham⁴, in Brown, was born in 1681. Ebenezer Tinkham⁵, in Brown, was born in 1714. His wife was Hannah Shaw. Rebecca Tinkham⁶, in Brown, was born in 1739; she married, in 1765, David Thomas of Middleboro, Mass., son of Isreal and Phebe (Lyon) Thomas, of the latter town. Ayel Thomas⁷, in Brown, was born in Middleboro in 1768. His wife was Phebe, daughter of George Ellis of Plymouth, Mass. David Thomas⁸, in Brown, was born at Middleboro, April 9, 1807. He died at Waltham, Mass., March 15, 1901, and was buried at

*The modern style clips the last three letters from Middleborough, as it does in the case of a number of Mass. towns having the same termination. It is now always written, Middleboro.

Bangor, Maine. He married, Oct. 25, 1832, at Middleboro, Mary Wood, daughter of Nathaniel and Joanna (Tinkham) Thompson of Middleboro. Their daughter was Joanna Maria Thomas⁹, in Brown, who became the wife of John Melvin Rice⁹, in Rice.

Her second line also starts with Peter Brown as generation 1, and with Mary, his daughter, who became the wife of Ephraim Tinkham¹, as generation 2. But here the second line divides from the first, and, in the second, Ephraim Tinkham, Jr., becomes generation 3, as his brother, Ebenezer is generation 3 in the first line. Ephraim Tinkham, Jr., who is generation 3 in Mrs. Rice's second line, was born at Plymouth, Mass., Aug. 5, 1649, and married, in 1678, Hester, born at Plymouth in 1649, daughter of William (who was baptized at Austerfhendon, England, 1588, and came to America in the "Fortune" in 1621,) and Priscilla (Carpenter) Wright. Priscilla was daughter of Alexander Carpenter. William was a brother of Richard Wright who married, Esther Cooke, daughter of the Mayflower Pilgrim, Francis Cooke. John Tinkham, Sr.⁴, is generation 4 in Mrs. Rice's second line. He was born in Middleboro, Mass., Aug. 25, 1680. He was a cousin of Jeremiah Tinkham who was generation 4 in Mrs. Rice's first line. He married Hannah Howland, daughter of Isaac and Elizabeth (Vaughn) Howland, and granddaughter of John, the Mayflower Pilgrim, and Elizabeth (Tillie) Howland. Elizabeth was daughter of John Tillie and came with her parents in the Mayflower on the voyage of 1620. Thus by the marriage of John Tinkham, Sr., of generation 4 in Mrs. Rice's second line, with Hannah, daughter of Isaac and granddaughter of John Howland, the lines of the three 1620 Pilgrims, Tillie, Brown and Howland ran into one and the same line. From thence down in the branch being here treated,—Generation 5 is John Tinkham, Jr., a Revolutionary soldier, born in Middleboro, May 8, 1719. He married, Jan. 27, 1742 or 3, Jerusha, daughter of John Vaughn, granddaughter of Joseph Vaughn, and great granddaughter of George Vaughn, the immigrant. This last marriage also allies the paternal with the maternal lines of Joanna Maria (Thomas) Rice, running back from here to the 1620 immigration. John Tinkham, who to distinguish him from his grandfather and father was called “3rd,” was a lieutenant in the American Revolution, was born April 6, 1754, at Middleboro, and is generation 6 in Mrs. Rice’s second line. He married Mary, daughter of Deacon Ephraim Wood. Their daughter was Joanna Tinkham who was generation 7 in Mrs. Rice’s second line. She was born June 24, 1785. She married, Sept. 12, 1805, Nathaniel Thompson, son of Nathaniel and Phebe (Godfrey) Thompson of Middleboro. Generation 8 in this second line of Mrs. Rice is their daughter, Mary Wood Thompson, born March 16, 1812. She married Oct. 16, 1832, at Middleboro, David Thomas⁹, as stated in tracing Mrs. Rice’s first line; and they were the parents of Joanna Maria (Thomas) Rice, wife of John Melvin Rice.

Joanna Maria (Thomas) Rice was, upon her maternal side, descended from John Tillie, John Howland and Peter Brown of the New Plymouth “adventure,” as before intimated. Here, upon her maternal side, the Tillie and Howland lines came together in the marriage, in 1623, of John Howland with Elizabeth, John Tillie’s daughter.

Counting, then, John and Elizabeth (Tillie) Howland as generation 1, we have, Isaac and Elizabeth (Vaughn) Howland as generation 2. Hannah Howland, daughter of Isaac, we have as generation 3. She married John Tinkham, Sr.⁴, in Brown, ³ in Tinkham. This John Tinkham, Sr.⁴, and ³, was son of Ephraim, the immigrant, and Mary (Brown) Tinkham; and Mary Brown was daughter of Peter (Brown) of the 1620 Mayflower Party. So that, in the marriage of John Tinkham, Sr.,⁴ in Brown, ³ in Tinkham, with Hannah Howland of generation 3 in the line now being treated, the Peter Brown line became allied with that of Howland, and that of Tillie with Howland and Brown. John Tinkham, Jr., is generation 4 in the line now being here given. As stated, in tracing the paternal line, John Tinkham, Jr.⁵, there,⁴ here, married, Jan. 27, 1742 or 3, Jerusha Vaughn. Generation 5 in the line here given is John Tinkham, Esq., called 3rd, also Lieutenant. He was born at Middleboro in 1754; married, in 1778, Mary, daughter of Deacon Ephraim and Mary (Leach) Wood. Generation 6 is Joanna Tinkham, born June 24, 1785, married, Sept. 12, 1805, Nathaniel Thompson of Middleboro. As generation 7 we have Mary Wood Thompson who married David Thomas, (born 1807.) And as generation 8, in this line, we have Joanna Maria Thomas who became the wife of John Melvin Rice⁸.

John Melvin and Joanna Maria (Thomas) Rice had one child, Addie¹⁰, in Rice, born Feb. 10, 1862; married, July 18, 1884, Jefferson Bradbury of Houlton, Maine; had one child, Melvin Rice Bradbury¹¹, in Rice, born in Houlton, Maine, Dec. 12, 1890.

John Melvin Rice⁹ has been in the furniture business in Hampden and Houlton, Maine. Is now President and Treasurer of the Buttrick Lumber Co. at Waltham, Mass. He was a member of Company E, 6th Maine Regiment, from Aug. 27, 1863, to the close of the war of the Rebellion and most of the time on detached duty as adjutant's clerk.

4. Benjamin Crosby⁹, born in Hampden, Aug. 9, 1843; died Oct. 31, 1844.
5. Lyman Frisbie⁹, born in Hampden, June 18, 1845. On July 17, 1862, when 17 years of age, he enlisted, at Bangor, Maine, in the Union Army for the suppression of the Southern Rebellion, and on the 18th of Sept. of the same year, was mustered into the United States military service, and was assigned to Co. F, 6th Infantry Regiment, Maine Volunteers, then in the field. He was in all the battles and skirmishes of that regiment from the time of his muster-in, until the time of the service of the regiment expired in 1864, when he was assigned to Co. C, 1st Veteran Infantry. He was at, and was wounded in, the battle of Rappahannock Station, Nov. 7, 1863. At this battle his regiment was badly cut up, coming out with hardly company organizations. He was not so severely wounded as to compel him to leave the field, and, at this battle, he captured, with his own hands, a rebel stand of colors. While bearing this trophy to a place of safety and beyond a peradventure of recapture, he was asked, by a member of his regiment, to let him take it. Young Rice, as he afterward said, not, in the excitement of the occasion, comprehending the value, from the standpoint of a soldier, of his trophy, and, not suspecting that any one would attempt to appropriate his capture and its fruits, handed it over. The recipient immediately carried the colors to the General commanding, as a trophy of his own taking. The General, in good faith, and in the belief that he who brought the colors to him was, in fact, their captor, took them to Washington and had the attention of Congress, then in session, brought to the matter.

LYMAN FRISBIE RICE⁹.

Congress, also, in good faith, at once voted a gold medal for distinguished bravery, not to Rice who had, but to another, who had not, captured the stand of confederate colors; unless the possession thereof, by that other, in the manner above stated can be called a capture. After the confusion resulting from the battle of Rappahannock Station had subsided and many of the surviving sick and wounded had returned from hospitals, there being ample proof that young Rice had captured the stand of colors in question, an attempt was urged to right the wrong and correct the error. But, inasmuch as some time had elapsed, and Congress had acted and a record had been made up, the argument used, poor as it was, was, that it was not advisable to then correct the error; as, to do so, would involve explanations discreditable to the regiment. The object here is not to reflect upon any one or any organization; but it is to preserve the above facts as a simple act of justice to the memory of Lyman Frisbie Rice, who gave his young life to his country, in the great conflict of 1861-5, for the preservation of the American Union. He died of small pox at Rocky Point Hospital, Md., in 1864.

Appendix

Here follow the straight, single, genealogical lines which the foregoing work quite broadly treats and unbrokenly traces, from and including the immigrant ancestors, who were of the earliest New England and some other settlements in America, down to and including some one or more, of their respective descendants of the youngest generations now living. In this work, the hunt for trails and data has been ancestral ; the placings here are in genealogical order. It is thought that this arrangement of family lines may serve as a convenient and concise review for those who may have followed the detailed tracing, and as something that can be quickly grasped by those who may have neither the time nor the taste to follow them. In this appendix, the American generations are indicated by superior figures or numerals placed above and at the right of names, as in the more extended part of the work.

LINE OF CLARK (JOSEPH)

+ *Joseph Clark*¹, the immigrant, wife, Alice Pepper; *Joseph*²; *Joseph*³; *Joseph*⁴; *Joseph*⁵; *Ichabod*⁶; *Nathan*⁷; *Harvey Dexter*⁸; *William Copeland*⁹; *Walter*¹⁰, *J Fred*¹⁰, and *Hugo*¹⁰; *Ethel*¹¹, *Walter, Jr.*¹¹, *Bertha May*¹¹, *Lewis White*¹¹, and *William Copeland*¹¹, children of *Walter*¹⁰; and *Robert Pinkham*¹¹, *Helen*¹¹, and *Lawrence Copeland*¹¹, children of *J Fred*¹⁰.

NOTE. In the same way as above, any of the many genealogical lines, starting with *Joseph Clark*¹, or with any of his descendants, may be run to the current time. For example, start at *Nathan Clark*⁷, in the above line, and make the 8th generation his daughter, Eliza Ann, instead of his son, Harvey Dexter, and we have—*Eliza Ann (Clark) Pritchard*⁸; *William Henry Pritchard*⁹; *Jennie (Pritchard) Hathorne*¹⁰, and *Roland Edgar Hathorne*¹¹, in Clark.

In both the above lines the 11th generation is reached; to and including the 7th, both are identical; from the 7th generation each is a branch of a branch of the trunk line. Eight at least, of the nine children of *Joseph Clark*¹ lived to enter the marriage state and to have children. There, then, were 8 lines of descent, each, at *Joseph*¹, dividing from, yet related to the other.

In this, or in any other family line run in this work, any one in any of them, may, by tracing back, make the trunk line connection, and then easily arrange a straight line from his immigrant ancestor to himself.
